Red Army Recaptures Stalingrad Street as Nazi Drive Dies Down

Activity Inside Rubble-Strewn City Confined to Artillery—Fighting Heavy in Mozdok Area And Along Black Sea—German Attack On Northwest Front Repelled

Battle at Tractor Plant

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 (Wednesday) (AP).—German attacks on the Stalingrad front died down again today, and the Russians announced that Red Army troops had recaptured a street given up the previous day, and pushed the Germans back slightly in one sector northwest of the battered city.

Beyond the isolated Soviet action in which the street was recaptured, the Tuesday midnight communique said, activity inside the rubble-strewn city again was confined to artillery after a one-day renewal of German assaults.

Action northwest of Stalingrad also appeared to have been restricted to local engagements. The communique said one unit of Elite Guardsmen "pressed back the Germans somewhat" in one engagement and in other sectors the Russians "continued to defend their former positions" and "carried out reconnaissance raids."

MOZDOK AREA ACTIVE

Fighting, however, continued heavy in the Mozdok area of the Caucasus and along the Black Sea.

In the Mozdok area, the communique said, two battalions of German infantry, supported by tanks and aircraft, attacked Russian positions, but were hurled back to their original positions by fierce artillery and mortar fire after losing 300 men.

Southeast of the German-occupied Black Sea base of Novorossisk, it said, Soviet marines repelled an enemy attack and "improved their positions." In this engagement two

Canadians and Americans Rule Aleutian Skies

Apparently Run Japanese Out—Enemy "Couldn't Take It"

HEADQUARTERS ALASKAN ARMY AIR FORCE, Oct. 13 (AP).—American and Canadian airmen apparently have run Japanese fighter planes out of the Aleutian skies.

This was the conclusion reached by army officers here today on the basis of reports from fighting over Kiska and vicinity, where Allied forces kept up the practically continuous raids over Japanese-held islands, as they have been doing for more than a month.

Japanese floating fighter planes were the bane of United States bombers over Kiska most of the Summer. Their appearance at high altitudes in what appeared to be good fighter manoeuvres was an unpleasant surprise to unescorted United States bombers. With the exception of navy catapult planes, no other fast fighters on floats have been seen in this war. For a while, it looked as though the Japanese might have found something new to fill in when, as 'n the Aleutians, they were unable to establish land bases for fighting planes.

FAILED IN BATTLE

However, the float fighters failed to stand the acid test when they came up against Allied fighting planes, beginning around September 7. They simply couldn't take it, United States and Canadian flyers

PLANTS SEIZED IN U.S. PURGE

Five Men Jailed on Bribery Charges—$1,000,000 Involved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP).—The United States Government, declaring more than $1,000,000 in management irregularities might be involved, seized the plants of Triumph Explosives, Inc., at Elkton, Md., and of its subsidiaries today and arrested five men on bribery charges.

The White House said a navy investigation had uncovered "numerous instances of bribery in the Triumph Company management. The firm makes munitions for both the army and navy.

Arrested on bribery charges by the Federal Bureau of Investigation were:

Josef Ben Decker, who founded Triumph seven years ago and now is its executive vice-president; Reginald Gregory, chief civilian navy inspector at Triumph; J. A. McCambridge and A. P. Frabrizi, until recently civilian army inspectors at the plant; and Frank Poughkeepsie, who formerly worked for the army at its Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds and who was employed at Triumph at the time of his arrest.

"The inspectors," a White House statement said, "are charged with accepting bribes in the guise of 'service fees.' The navy's preliminary investigation indicates that more than $1,000,000 in management 'irregularities' may be involved."

The navy took over the plants under a Presidential order, which said this action was necessary to see that the plants were "effectively and safely" operated.

Labor Urges High Board Of Strategy

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP). — The American Federation of Labor convention today urged the appointment of an over-all board of military and civilian strategy to direct the United States war effort which, it said, was being hampered by lack of a supreme co-ordinating authority.

Approving a supplementary report from its resolutions committee, the convention said the board should plan for contract allocation, for most efficient use of production resources, for providing raw materials, for planning use of manpower as well as for outlining all other foreign and domestic policies relating to the war.

The convention recommended that the strategy board be created by President Roosevelt, and suggested that Vice-President Henry Wallace be chairman and that its personnel should include key persons in the war administration.

Japan Plans Air Pageant

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP).—The Tokio radio said in a broadcast tonight that Japanese airmen would stage "a unique air pageant" next Sunday morning over the capital by flying a number of United States aircraft purported to have been captured from British and American forces in the Southwest Pacific.

The Domei dispatch said Boeing B-17 Flying Fortresses, Douglas and Martin bombers and Curtiss and Buffalo fighter planes would be in the flight, which was described as part of a festival to raise funds for families of Japanese war dead.

Will Jail Any Free Japanese

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13 (CP).—Austin Taylor, chairman of the British Columbia Security Commission, said here today that just as soon as the last Japanese have been moved out of the Vancouver and Fraser Valley area "any who are found in Vancouver and Burnaby will be subject to immediate arrest."

Mr. Taylor said less than 800 Japanese remained in and around Vancouver and in Fraser Valley centres and these will be moved to Interior camps within two weeks.

Bombing Planes Smash At Japanese Airdrome

Rabaul, New Britain, Target of Tons of Explosives Third Time in Week—Japanese Resist Land Troops

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 14 (Wednesday) (AP). — Supporting Allied naval forces in the Solomon Islands battle area, General Douglas MacArthur sent a large formation of heavy bombers into smashing attacks on the Japanese airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, again yesterday for the third time in a week, a communique said today.

The big bombers attacked during darkness, dropping "many tons" of bombs, including 1,000-pounders, on runways and dispersal areas of the air fields of the great Japanese base where at least 30,000 troops and many planes have been assembled.

In a similar raid announced in last Saturday's communique sixty tons of bombs were dropped on Rabaul and the following day forty tons were dropped.

Today's communique did not say whether the latest attack equaled the previous in extent, but said large fires and explosions were caused and that heavy damage was believed to have been inflicted.

German forces have moved into the Kalmyk Steppes, south of Stalingrad, and are striking toward the Lower Volga between Stalingrad and Astrakhan. Observers believe this may be an attempt to anchor the German flank, leaving Stalingrad as an island of resistance to be reduced, if possible, at a more opportune moment. The above map shows the scenes of action and recent developments on the Southern Russian front.

Malta Defenders Down Forty-Seven Axis Planes

Fifty More Badly Damaged in Three Days of Raids On Island—Few Junkers Get Through Strong Defences—Twenty-Four Attacking Craft Brought Down in Day for New Record

CAIRO, Oct. 13 (AP).—Malta's defenders bagged eight more Nazi planes today, bringing a three-day total to forty-seven definitely destroyed and about fifty more so badly damaged that some probably never regained their Sicilian bases.

Only six Spitfire pilots of the R.A.F. were downed in this sustained struggle over the tiny sentinel island which has impeded Nazi sea-borne supplies from Italy to Marshal Rommel's Axis North African troops. Of the downed pilots, two were rescued from the sea. Only a few casualties have been suffered and property damage was described as slight.

Only a few of the Junkers 88 bombers, which were heavily escorted by German and Italian fighters, penetrated Malta's defences to drop explosives, reports said tonight.

The island has been used so skilfully to impede the flow of supplies to North Africa that the Axis recently diverted its shipping farther eastward, where Greek and Cretan ports were used.

But there the Axis ships ran into heavy attacks by the "pink elephant" long-range bombers of the United States Army Air Forces operating from secret bases in the Eastern Mediterranean.

So observers concluded tonight that the renewed onslaught on Malta was still another attempt to remove that menace and use the shorter Mediterranean supply route between Sicily and Tripoli.

THREE BOMBERS

Of the eight planes downed today three were Axis bombers and five were fighters. The first to fall was chalked up as the 1,000th destroyed by Malta's defenders in three years of siege.

The two-day total of enemy planes definitely destroyed Sunday and Monday was scored at thirty-nine, and of the twenty-four downed yesterday a new record of twenty-two

He attended Gordon Head and Esquimalt schools. He was employed by Canadian Industries, Limited, James Island, before joining the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Asked to Stop Saving Pennies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP). — The United States Treasury announced today a 50 per cent cut in production of pennies, to about 60,000,000 a month to save copper, and appealed to the public, especially children, to stop saving pennies.

SOLDIER FACES MURDER CHARGE

Expected to Appear in Cab Driver Case in Burnaby Today

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13 (CP).—Robert Beatty, twenty-three-year-old soldier, late today was charged with the murder of Philip Davis, Vancouver cab driver.

The soldier, who had been absent without leave since leaving a local army barracks, September 17, had been held by police since Saturday on other charges. Police said he was carrying a 38-calibre revolver at the time and that it had been stolen from the Seaforth Armories here.

City police said Beatty was expected to appear tomorrow in Provincial Police court at nearby Burnaby municipality, where Davis was shot through the back of the head eight days ago.

Finding of Davis' body by Sidney A. Cullen while walking in North Burnaby on Sunday ended an eight-day search for the taxi driver.

In a reconstruction of the crime police said they believed Davis had picked the soldier up while answering a call and that he had been forced to drive to a lonely spot where his body was found.

Japanese Work On U.S. Harvest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP).—More than 7,000 persons of Japanese descent who were evacuated from the Pacific Coast, are harvesting crops in Western states. Serving as replacements for farm workers who have entered the armed services or war industry, the evacuees are mostly American-born and between twenty-one and thirty years old.

Reprisals Depend on The Nazis

LONDON, Oct. 13 (CP).—Prime Minister Churchill announced today that Germany had been requested to rescind her action in shackling British and Canadian prisoners and that, if the Nazis agreed, Britain immediately would cancel her reprisal measures.

Mr. Churchill said the Germans violated the Geneva Convention when they chained 1,376 prisoners taken at the Canadian-led raid on Dieppe August 19, and that representations had been made to Berlin, through Switzerland, urging the Nazis to desist.

If the Germans will desist, he continued, "the counter-measures of similar nature which the British Government, felt themselves forced to take will immediately be withdrawn."

U.S. Deals Japanese Terrific Beating by Land, Sea and in Air

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1942, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, Oct. 13—The Germans have broken the lull in their attempts to take Stalingrad and have made a series of fresh attacks but without result. At the same time the Red Army has gained ground to the northwest of the city.

The Germans lost several hundred men in their latest assaults, which have been much weaker than of late. Cessation of heavy pressure has given the defenders a chance to strengthen their position.

According to the Stockholm correspondent of The Times the Russians are more and more taking the initiative and are keeping the tired-out Nazis incessantly busy. Reinforcements of inferior troops continue to reach the Nazi front, but whether this means a resumption of assault operations or withdrawal to the Don is not clear. In Berlin now stress is laid by military spokesmen on the formation of a Winter front behind the Rivers Don, Lovat and Volkhov.

In the Caucasus the Germans have made no important gains for some weeks while, says the Moscow correspondent, Russian counter-operations have confused their plans. Soviet marines have been so successful against Rumanian troops east of Novorossisk that the Rumanians were panicked and fled and had to be forced back into fighting by the Nazi battle police who fired on them.

The military expert of The Times doubts whether artillery bombardment will ever give the Germans entry into Stalingrad. He recalls that heavy bombardment of Ypres during four years in the last war did not bring about its fall. Nazis will have to resort again to infantry if they want to take the city that has defied them so magnificently. As for further advance in the Caucasus Mountains, snow is now closing the passes and the season is nearly too late for a campaign against Batum or Baku.

Once again Royal Air Force has smashed back at Malta's air assailants bring down thirty-seven Axis aircraft in two days against negligible losses. In the raids not a single enemy machine was able to cross the Maltese coast, proof of the strength of the island's defences. Meanwhile, says the correspondent of The Times in the Western Desert, Axis convoys in Mediterranean have been bombed by

Break Into City Store

Thieves last night gained entrance to Pritchard's Men's Clothing Store, 1227 Government Street, by prying the iron guard bars apart and smashing the rear window.

City police said the pair made their getaway through the front door when they heard Constable Arthur Rudge approaching. When Rudge gave chase, the two men locked the back door and escaped through the front onto Government Street.

Police said late last night the dial had been knocked off the safe and a pair of gloves, a hammer and two punches were found on the floor. Several suits of clothing, overcoats, etc., were found bundled up ready to be taken away.

Six-Day Onslaught From Solomons to Aleutians Puts Ten Enemy Warships and Fifteen Planes Out of Fight, Wrecks Seaplane Base, and Wins New Positions on Guadalcanal

American Cruisers Sunk

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP).—From the jungles of the Solomon Islands to the shores of the Aleutians, United States forces have dealt the Japanese a terrific beating by land, sea and air in the last six days, it was announced tonight.

Three navy communiques gave this account of American onslaughts at both ends of the far-flung Pacific battlefront:

A task force of United States cruisers and destroyers waylaid an enemy force trying to land troop reinforcements on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons on Sunday night and sank one 10,000-ton heavy cruiser, four destroyers and a 5,000-ton transport. One unidentified United States destroyer was sunk.

Navy and Marine Corps torpedo planes and dive-bombers, chasing the fleeing remnants of the enemy fleet next day, badly damaged at least one more cruiser and probably sank a destroyer.

Total enemy ship losses for these sea and air actions were six ships sunk, one probably sunk and one damaged.

Last week, on October 9, Marine Corps aircraft attacked two Japanese light cruisers and four destroyers in the Solomons, damaged both cruisers and shot down three seaplanes. Meanwhile the enemy's seaplane base at Rekata Bay was strafed by Navy and Marine Corps planes.

INTERCEPT ATTACK

Two days later, October 11, Army, Navy and Marine Corps fighter planes intercepted a four-flight attack of sixty-five Japanese bombers and fighters over Guadalcanal, forced them to jettison their bombs in an open field and shot down eight bombers and four Zero fighters with a loss of only two United States planes.

About the time that victory was being achieved in the air, American marines ashore on Guadalcanal were clinching the results of their first offensive operation in several weeks.

Hunters Drop Sport to Save Wrecked Crew

Rescue Forty-Seven From Grounded Ship on Shore Of Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 13 (CP).—A party of ptarmigan hunters, who dropped their sport to rig a breeches buoy for a crew of shipwrecked mariners, were disclosed tonight to have saved all forty-seven men aboard the ship after it ran aground on the forbidding Newfoundland coast.

Stranded only thirty feet offshore, the ship's crewmen were barred from safety by high, bluff cliffs until the hunting party from St. John's came to their rescue. The sportsmen — Gordon Higgins, Charles Godden and James McLaughlan—were at their camp on the southern coast of Newfoundland when distress flares from the ship were sighted.

Picking up two other men, Garret Stamp and Bernard Gibbons, they hurried to the cliffside to find the ship jammed on the rocks below them in darkness.

LINE FALLS SHORT

By firing their guns, they attracted the attention of the crew above the noise of breaking surf. From the ship a light line was flung shoreward, but it fell short of the clifftop.

Gibbons then scrambled down the steep wall of the cliff and caught the line, carrying it up to the top. The five men on land used the light rope to draw a heavy line from the ship, fastening it to a tree.

In a bosun's chair rigged to the line, all aboard the wrecked vessel rode to safety across the short stretch of breakers.

Exact location of the stranding was not disclosed, and the ship's identity was not revealed.

Smuts Arrives For War Talk

LONDON, Oct. 13 (CP).—Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa has arrived in Britain for war talks and is expected to stay for more than a week, the Dominions Office announced tonight.

The seventy-two-year-old South African leader in a statement said: "The stage we have now reached in the war calls for a careful review of the course before us and what little I can contribute in that cause will be most gladly given."

WILLKIE GOING TO WASHINGTON

Globe-Girdling Emissary Will Report to White House Today

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 13 (AP).—Wendell Willkie, globe-girdling Presidential emissary who arrived here this afternoon, announced tonight he would fly directly to Washington tomorrow in response to a request from the White House. He had originally intended to fly to New York tomorrow.

Willkie arrived here from Edmonton, aboard the Gulliver, a United States Army plane which carried him and his party over seventeen countries and territories.

SOMETHING TO SAY

The 1940 Republican Presidential nominee indicated in Edmonton last night that he would have something to say when he reached the United States about "flippant statements made by certain public officials" concerning his second-front statement in Moscow, but limited himself at his press conference here largely to praise for the Gulliver and its crew. He indicated, however, that he would make a full report later.

The Gulliver made the first round-the-world air passenger trip via the North Pacific, and was the first to fly from China to the United States via Alaska.

It also was the first American plane to fly over the Gobi Desert and over the Mongolian Republic, the first American plane to fly through Siberia in wartime and the first to enter China from Russia.

Declares Nazi Speeches All Strike Note of Fear

Winston Churchill Says Hitler's Prospects Have Darkened to Immeasurable Degree in Two Years

EDINBURGH, Oct. 12 (AP).—Following is the text, in part, of the speech Prime Minister Churchill delivered here on Monday:

The Prime Minister began by reviewing his own ties with Scotland, recalling that he had commanded a Scottish battalion in France in the First Great War and lauding the unity of purpose among Scots and then continued:

Our enemies have been more talkative lately.

Ribbentrop, Goering and Hitler all have been making speeches which are of interest because they reveal with considerable frankness their state of mind. There is one note which rings through all these speeches. It can be quite clearly heard above their customary boastings and threats—a dull, low, whining note of fear.

CONSCIOUS OF GUILT

They are all speeches of men conscious of their guilt . . .

How different from the tone of 1940, when France was struck down, when Eastern Europe was subjugated, when Western Europe was beaten down, when Mussolini hastened to stab us in the back, when Britain stood all alone as the sole champion in arms for the freedom and inheritance of mankind.

How different are these plaintive speeches and expostulations from what we used to hear in those days. Evidently something has happened in these two years to make these

Film Scene Re-enacted Ends Life

LONDON, Oct. 13 (CP).—Kenneth Pearson, member of an R.A.F. ground crew, today picked up his .45 revolver to demonstrate a gangster film scene to two W.A.A.F.'s.

The gunman in the film had put a bullet in the revolver, spun the cylinder and then taken a 5-to-1 chance against death by holding the barrel against his head and pressing the trigger.

"Be sporting," the real live soldier told one of the W.A.A.F.'s, handing her the revolver, "take a chance."

When the girl refused, Pearson flicked the cylinder with one bullet in it and took the chance.

There was a flash. Pearson slid from his chair dead.

Motor Car Licence Fee Cut Requested

Association to Continue Efforts for Reduction, Says Official After Delegation Meets Executive Council—Consideration Promised

THE British Columbia Automobile Association will continue to press for a reduction in the annual licence fee for motor cars, J. B. Leyland, of West Vancouver, a director, said yesterday afternoon after a petition had been presented to Premier John Hart and members of the Provincial Executive Council.

The delegation, comprising association officials and Victoria and Vancouver businessmen, was assured its request would receive serious consideration, but Premier Hart at the same time explained that his Government is faced with shrinking revenues from several sources and with increasing highway upkeep costs.

The petition requested the Government "to consider the advisability of reducing the annual licence fee for automobiles to a fixed sum of $10, inclusive of driver's licence."

HAS STRONG SUPPORT

It has the support of more than 8,000 automobile owners, Lower Mainland boards of trade and chambers of commerce, several service clubs and labor groups, automobile dealers and commercial travelers' associations, farmers' institutes and the British Columbia Provincial Command, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., Mr. Leyland said.

"Mr. Hart mentioned that the indebtedness on provincial roads is $43,000,000, and that it has to be met whether cars are traveling on them or not," Mr. Leyland added. "However, we expressed the hope that the burden of decreasing revenues would not fall on the motorists and that they would not be further penalized."

While the delegates felt they had made some progress in their interview with the Cabinet Council, there will be no relaxation in efforts to obtain a reduction in the fee, said Mr. Leyland.

"We will call a public meeting at an early date in Vancouver, and the brief will be presented for endorsation. We will also seek the support of all organizations that may be interested."

HEAVILY TAXED

The brief contended that motor car owners are the highest taxed class in the province, and that the taxes they pay in respect of their ownership and operation of their cars are out of proportion to taxes levied against any other class of taxpayer in the province.

It was felt that while high taxes in peacetime would justify motorists in seeking a reduction in their licence fee, wartime restrictions have made their position increasingly unbearable.

"The necessities of war have resulted in such restrictions in the use and value of a car, as to make the present heavy licence fees unduly onerous when considered with other types of war taxation," it is contended in the petition. "To such an extent is this the case, it seems obvious that many cars will be completely laid up in the near future unless some relief, as suggested, is provided, and will result in serious depreciation in the value of such cars, and indeed will affect adversely the war efforts of many of our citizens."

It was suggested that the Government might benefit by a larger number of cars operating at decreased licence fees rather than by a smaller number of cars operating at the present higher fee.

CARS USED LESS

"Owing to the restrictions on tires and gasoline, the value of the use of the motor car has been reduced by at least 50 per cent, its use being limited to only business necessities," said the petition.

"The petition is based on the principle of justice to the automobile owner," said H. F. Bird, secretary-manager of the British Columbia Automobile Association, "and no stone will be left unturned until some reduction is made in the licence fee."

Mr. Leyland presented the brief and delegates who spoke in its support were: J. V. Johnson, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce; Birt Showler, president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, and M. Leo Sweeney, president of the Vancouver Tourist Association.

Other Victoria delegates were: W. T. Straith, K.C., M.P.P.; R. Knight, Canadian Legion; G. I. Warren, commissioner, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; F. J. Mulliner, chairman, Victoria School Board; Reeve W. L. Woodhouse, of Oak Bay; Art Christopher, Gyro Club; Samuel Armstrong, W. P. D. Pemberton, T. J. Goodlake, A. D. King, Archie McLeod, Associated Commercial Travelers.

Other attending from Vancouver were: H. B. McKelvie, British Columbia Automobile Association; Stan Collier, Vancouver Motor Dealers' Association; Morton Ferguson, David Thompson and Archie Cater.

NOTE OF FEAR IN NAZI SPEECHES

evildoers feel that aggression, war and bloodshed, and trampling down of the weak may not be, after all, the whole story.

SETTLING DAY NEAR

There may be another side of the account. It is a long account, and it is becoming pretty clear that the day is coming when it will have to be settled. The most striking and curious part of Hitler's speech was his complaint that no one pays sufficient attention to his victories . . .

It strikes a chill into his marrow because in his heart he knows that with all his tremendous victories and vast conquests his fortunes have declined.

His prospects have darkened to an immeasurable degree in the last two years, while at the same time Britain, the United States, Russia and China have moved forward steadily onward from strength to strength.

He sees with amazement that our defeats are but stepping stones to victory, and all his victories stepping stones to ruin.

RAILED AT FORTUNE

It is apparent to me that this bad man saw quite clearly the shadow of slowly and remorselessly approaching doom and he railed at fortune for mocking him with the glitter of fleeting success . . . It is but natural that the peaceful, unprepared and improvident should suffer terribly and the wicked, scheming aggressors should have their exultation . . . It is only the first chapter. If the great and peaceful democracies could survive the first few years of the aggressors' attack another chapter had to be written . . .

It is to that chapter we shall come in due time.

It will ever be to the glory of these islands and this Empire that we stood alone for one whole year and gained time for the good cause to arm, to organize and slowly bring the conjoined, united, irresistible forces of outraged civilization to bear upon the criminals . . .

FEAR THE MOTIVE

Fear is also the motive which inspires Hitler's latest outrages. From North Cape in Norway to the Spanish frontier at Bayonne, a distance, apart from indentations, of nearly 2,000 miles, German invading armies are holding down by brute force and terrorism the nations of Western Europe.

Norway, Denmark, Belgium and France all are under Hitler's grip; all are seething with the spirit of revolt and revolution. Except in Denmark, whose turn will come, Nazi firing parties are busy . . . Every day hatred of the German race and name burns fiercer in the hearts of these ancient states and peoples.

INSPIRE ANXIETY

British Commando raids at different points along this enormous coast, although so far only a forerunner of what is to come, inspire the authors of many crimes and miseries with lively anxiety.

His soldiers dwell among populations who would kill them with their hands if they got the chance and will kill them one at a time when they get the chance.

In addition, there comes out from the sea from time to time a hand of steel which plucks German sentries from their posts . . .

INNOCENT HOSTAGES

In his fear and spite, Hitler turns upon prisoners of war who are in his camps and his power. Just as he takes innocent hostages from his prisons in Norway, Belgium and France to shoot them in hope of breaking the spirit of their countrymen, so in the flattest breach of the few conventions which still hold across the lines of the world war he vents his cruel fear and anger upon prisoners of war and casts them into chains.

I have always expected that this war would become worse in severity as the guilty Nazis feel the ring of doom remorselessly closing in upon them. Here in the West we have seen many savage bestial acts, but nothing that has happened in the West so far can compare with wholesale massacres, not only of soldiers but civilians and women and children, which have characterized Hitler's invasion of Russia.

THOUSANDS MURDERED

In Russia and in his reigns of terror in Poland and Yugoslavia tens of thousands have been murdered in cold blood by the German army and the special police battalions and brigades which accompany it everywhere and take a leading part in frightful butcheries perpetrated behind the front.

For every one execution which Hitler has ordered in the West he has carried out at least 200—it may be more—in Eastern and Central Europe. In the first day after he entered Kiev he shot 54,000 persons. I say to show any weakness of any kind to such a man is only to encourage further atrocities and you may be assured no weakness will be shown.

There is another reason, apart from his perverted instincts, why Hitler has begun large-scale maltreatment of British prisoners of war. He wishes to throw a new topic into the arena of world discussion and so divert men's eyes from the evident failure so far—I always say so far—of his second vast compaign against Russia.

HEROIC DEFENCE

The heroic defence of Stalingrad; the fact that the splendid Russian armies everywhere are intact, unbeaten, unbroken—nay, are counter-attacking with amazing energy along the whole front from Leningrad to the Caucasus Mountains; the fearful losses suffered by the German troops; the near approach of another Russian Winter—all these grim facts which cannot be concealed cast their freezing shadow upon the German people, already wincing under the repeated and increasing impact of British bombing.

They turn a stony gaze upon the leader who brought all this upon them and dumbly—for they dare not speak aloud—they put the terrible question: "Why did you go there? Why did you invade Russia?"

Already Field Marshal Goering has made haste to point out this decision was Hitler's alone; that Hitler alone conducts the war and the generals of the German army are but those who carry out his orders.

BUTCHER HONORED

Already Himmler, the police butcher, has been decorated, honored and promoted in token not only of the importance of his work in shooting and hanging thousands of Russian prisoners of war and torturing Poles, Czecho-Slovaks, Yugoslavs and Greeks, but of the increasing need for his devilish arts in the homeland of Germany itself.

Evidently in such a plight it would be natural for Hitler to raise a stir in some quarters and what could be more attractive to such a being than to mishandle captives who are powerless in his hands?

There are other matters which should cause Hitler and his guilty but somewhat ridiculous confederate Mussolini to ask themselves uncomfortable questions.

U-boat warfare still remains the greatest problem of the United Nations, but there is no reason whatever why it shoud not be solved by the prodigious measures of offence and defence and replacement on which Britain, Canada and, above all, the United States are now engaged.

LEAST BAD MONTHS

The months of August and September have been, I will not say the best, but the least bad months since January. They have seen new building of merchant ships substantially outweigh losses. They have seen the greatest tonnage of British bombs dropped on Germany. They have covered the most numerous safe arrivals of United States troops in the British Isles. They marked a definite growth of Allied air superiority over Germany, Italy and Japan.

In these months, indeed, in September, far away in the Pacific, the Australians, with their American allies, have made a good advance in New Guinea.

It is not my habit to encourage light or vain expectations, but these are solid and remarkable facts.

Surveying both sides of the account, good and bad, with equal composure and coolness, we must see that we have reached a stern and sombre moment in the war which calls in high degree for firmness of spirit and constancy of soul.

UNBREAKABLE ALLIANCE

The excitement and emotion of those great days when we stood alone, undaunted against what seemed overwhelming odds, and single-handed saved the future of the world are not present now. We are surrounded by governments and nations, all of us bound together in solemn, unbreakable alliance, and all of us bound together by ties not only of honor but of self-preservation.

Deadly dangers still beset us. Weariness, complacency, discord or squabbles over petty matters will mar our prospects. We must all drive ourselves to the utmost limit of our strength.

We must preserve and refine our sense of proportion. We must strive to combine the virtues of wisdom and daring. We must move forward together, united and inexorable.

Thus, with God's blessing, the hopes which we are now justified in feeling will not fade or wither. The light is broadening on the track and the light is brighter, too.

Famous Orchestra Draws Big Crowd

More than 1,300 people crowded the Empress Hotel ballroom Monday night to dance to the rhythms of Mart Kenney and his famed "Western Gentlemen," who were playing there under the auspices of the Kinsmen Club's "Milk For Britain Fund."

The exact amount made for the fund will be disclosed at the regular Kinsmen dinner in the Empress Hotel Thursday. Club officials said yesterday the dance was an unqualified success in every respect.

Earlier in the day Kenney gave a benefit performance at H.M.C.S. Naden and packed the drill hall with upwards of 2,000 dance-loving sailors.

AMERICANS SINK TEN ENEMY SHIPS

They had won new advance positions west of their old defence lines around the all-important airfield on the north coast of the island. The positions were taken in two days of battling during which the enemy suffered many casualties.

RAID KISKA BASE

In the Aleutians—where in recent weeks Royal Canadian Air Force planes have aided the American forces—United States Army four-engined Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers showered incendiary and demolition bombs on the Japanese base at Kiska Island, October 8, 9 and 10.

New fires were started in the enemy's last battered Aleutians base, which has been bombed steadily for several weeks. No Japanese planes took the air to repel the raiders, anti-aircraft fire was light and not an American plane was lost although some received minor damage.

BATTLE'S BOX SCORE

The box score of comparative losses reported in today's communique stood as follows:

JAPANESE

One heavy cruiser sunk, one badly damaged, one light cruiser badly damaged and one slightly damaged; four destroyers sunk and one probably sunk; one medium-sized transport sunk. Total, ten ships. Also eight bombers, four fighter planes and three seaplanes shot down. Total, fifteen planes.

These losses, all in the Solomons, raised the enemy's ship casualties for the Solomons campaign so far to eight sunk, three probably sunk and thirty-seven damaged, and his plane losses to 260. In addition there is the incalculable and cumulative damage of fires and explosions among shore installations.

AMERICAN

One destroyer sunk. Two fighter planes lost.

These losses, all in the Solomons, raised known American ship casualties for the campaign to ten vessels sunk, including the three heavy cruisers, Vincennes, Astoria and Quincy, loss of which was announced by the Navy Department yesterday. The total of American plane losses in the Solomons has not been announced but is known to be much smaller than that of the enemy.

TWO ISSUES OF VICTORY BONDS

Three and One-Half Year And Fourteen-Year Maturities Offered

OTTAWA, Oct. 13 (CP).—Canada's Third Victory Loan, with a "minimum requirement" of $750,000,000 as its objective, will be offered in two maturities, Finance Minister Ilsley announced Monday night.

The books will open October 19 and close on or about November 7, "with or without notice, in the discretion of the minister," said the official statement.

The bonds will bear interest from November 1. These are the maturities, optional with the subscriber:

A fourteen-year issue, maturing November 1, 1956, payable at maturity at 101, and bearing interest at 3 per cent.

A three-and-a-half-year issue, maturing May 1, 1946, payable at par at maturity, and bearing interest at 1.75 per cent.

The fourteen-year bonds will be callable at 101 during or after 1953 and will yield 3.06 per cent if held to maturity. The short-term issue will be non-callable to maturity.

Interest on both issues will be payable half-yearly.

FORTY-SEVEN AXIS AIRPLANES DOWNED

of them were destroyed during daylight hours.

The defenders once before shot down twenty-four in twenty-four hours, but never as many as twenty-two in the daylight.

The intensified Axis aerial operations around Malta were accompanied by Berlin and Rome radio reports that Britain was massing forces for a new attack in Egypt.

At the same time the German-controlled Paris radio renewed efforts to convince the French people that an Anglo-American assault on the French African Empire is imminent — presumably intended to pinch the Axis forces in North Africa from both east and west.

However, in the past heavy attacks on Malta's airdromes usually came simultaneously with the passage of Axis convoys across the narrow Central Mediterranean to Tripolitania.

HEAVY ASSAULT

Attempting to fend off the guardian Spitfire fighters based on Malta, the Germans and Italians sent escorts of thirty to fifty fighters with relatively small waves of eight to eighteen bombers in the heaviest assaults since July, when 153 enemy raiders were shot down over the isle.

The attacks began Sunday, continued through the night and raged through Monday, but as the day wore on the raids steadily dwindled.

Five British fighters were lost Monday, but the pilots of two escaped.

Berlin claimed the destruction of fifteen British planes and reported the loss of ten Axis aircraft in battles developing in "non-stop" raids on the Maltese airdromes. Rome chimed in with the claim of fifteen Spitfires downed, but did not mention Axis losses. Rome claimed also that Axis fighters shot two four-engined American bombers out of a formation near Tobruk, Monday, and that an Italian engineer unit bagged another from the ground.

SPIRIT OF COURAGE GREATEST ASSET IN DAYS OF DISTRESS

It is the spirit of courage that holds steadfast in the darkest times that often brings about the turning point in a country's fortunes, Thomas Hall, guest speaker, told members of the Burns Club of Victoria last night.

Speaking at a "Servicemen's Night" in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, Mr. Hall said, "If we can keep faith in ourselves we can build a finer civilization on two things—the good earth and man's love of man." He spoke on "Looking Forward Through the Past."

Other contributing to the programme, conducted under E. M. Whyte, president, were: W. B. Grant, a poem; Pipe-Major Donald Cameron, pipe selection; Miss Grace Adams, Petty Officer John Bray, R.C.N.V.R.; Sgt. Gilbert Margison, R.C.A.; L.A.C. D. A. Collyer, R.A.F., vocal solos. J. J. Mathieson thanked the artists.

COULD NOT BUTTON HIS COLLAR

Arm Weak After Rheumatic Pains

It is not sufficient merely to clear rheumatic pains out of the system—they must be kept out. For 10 years this man has been free from them:—

"A bad attack of rheumatic fever 10 years ago laid me up for four months. When I started work, I could not raise my right arm sufficiently to button my collar at the back. Having to get my own living, I became very anxious, because of my arm being so weak. So I started taking Kruschen Salts in small doses straight away, and have been taking it ever since. I am pleased to say I have not been troubled with rheumatic pains during this time. Although I am 61 years of age, I feel quite fit for my work."—J.E.M.

Kruschen dissolves away those needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which are so frequently the cause of rheumatic troubles. It will also help to flush these dissolved crystals out of your system. Then if you keep up "the little daily dose," excess uric acid is not likely to form again.

Kruschen is a British product, obtainable at all drug-stores, 25c and 75c.

Here's Quick Relief from SINUS PAIN
3-Purpose Medicine Helps Clear Out Congested Sinus Areas

No Alterations in Car Parking Rules

City Council Decides to Preserve Present Hour And Two-Hour Limits on Recommendation Of Chief J. A. McLellan

AUTOMOBILE parking regulations will not be altered, the City Council decided yesterday afternoon after considering a report from Chief J. A. McLellan, which urged that no changes be made in the present hour and two-hour limits.

Alderman John A. Worthington moved, which was defeated by eight votes to two, that the chief be commended on the report, and that it be received and filed. Alderman Archie Wills offered an amendment that the city solicitor be requested to amend streets traffic regulation by-law so that hour parking zones could be extended to two hours. Alderman Edward Williams stated, "We should let up a bit," as he seconded the amendment which was defeated by eight votes to two.

"It is a backward step. There are still several thousand cars on the streets," Alderman Worthington commented.

"There has been a slight reduction in the number of car licences, and I expect there will be more off the road within the next few months. Then it will be time to alter parking regulations. I should like to have more information," Alderman W. Lloyd Morgan added.

"Two-hour parking in present one-hour zones would release more constables for other essential duties," Alderman Percy E. George stated. "The three-wheeled motorcycle does most of the car marking. It would not make much difference," Mayor Andrew McGavin replied.

MOVE FROM LOTS

"Two-hour parking might mean that many persons would give up parking-lot space and use the streets again," Alderman W. H. Davies said.

"In Portland the council felt that since streets were being used as a public garage, motorists should be made to pay through parking meters. Cars are moved here hourly to beat the by-law. I do not think we should alter present regulations," Mayor McGavin asserted. "We should take the police chief's advice," Alderman Worthington urged.

The council granted an audience to P. H. Gayner, representing Broadcasting Station CJVI and All-Canada Radio Facilities, Ltd. He suggested aldermen arrange for a daily schedule of fifteen minutes from 7 to 7:15 o'clock, or some other convenient hour, and outlined the following tentative programme: Monday, air raids precautions and civilian protection matters; Tuesday, parks committee subjects; Wednesday, police and fire departments; Thursday, parent-teacher associations and other educational problems, and Friday, city health department.

Mr. Gayner stated CJVI would offer its facilities to the council for $2,400 per year and was prepared to grant extra time required free of charge. He said a survey showed the radio station served from 25 to 32 per cent of the potential audience in Greater Victoria.

MAYOR REPLIES

Mayor McGavin replied: "I suggest that you contact Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt to see if they are interested in using facilities of the station. They might join us in some Greater Victoria plan. I also suggest that you reconsider the charge of $2,400 you mentioned." Aldermen then asked the finance committee to discuss the radio plan and submit a report at the next meeting.

Instructions were given the water board to report on a letter from the Department of National Defence stating that closing roads through Sooke Lake and Goldstream watershed areas was a municipal matter. A letter from Victoria Branch of the S.P.C.A. protesting against the dispatching of a cat by W. Herbert Warren, parks superintendent, was received and filed on motion of Alderman T. W. Hawkins, who said it was nothing to do with the council.

Alderman B. J. Gadsden reported he had been investigating the possibility of salvaging metal from food containers. The question was referred to the business and trade committee, of which he is chairman. A request of C. W. Newbury that two old cypress trees be removed from 136 Government Street was granted. Resignation of E. C. Tucker from the fire department was accepted. A. H. Worthington was granted leave of absence from the parks department to join the armed forces.

BONUS IS GRANTED

On motion of the finance committee it was decided to pay a cost-of-living bonus to all superannuated employees who have been retired for the duration of the war. The city solicitor reported the council had no authority to make a grant to the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club. A basic rate of $4.80 per day was set for all outside employees. The public works committee was authorized to sell scrap metal to the Capital Iron & Metals Ltd. for $284.

Houses sold by the lands committee were 133 Moss Street, $450; 633 Speed Avenue, $600, and 3120 Douglas Street, $750. Lots disposed of were the north side of View Street, between Vancouver and Cook Streets, $350; southeast corner of John and Pleasant Streets, $200, and southeast corner of Linden Avenue and Richardson Street, $450.

It was agreed to remove old oak trees at 615 St. Charles Street; renew the Gillespie Grain Company's lease on the Ogden Point Grain Elevator for a guarantee of $17,500 per year and spend $400 on repairing tuberculosis buildings at 856 and 868 Pandora Avenue.

A suggestion of the parks committee that all fees at Ross Bay Cemetery be increased was returned to the committee for further consideration and written explanation.

TENDER ACCEPTED

A tender of Gordon Campbell Limited to supply fire department uniforms for $2,247 was accepted. The water board was authorized to purchase a milli-voltmeter to measure electrolysis of water mains at a cost of $450. A tender of the Capital Iron & Metals Limited to purchase five tons of water board scrap iron for $18 per ton and 1,000 pounds of brass for 6 cents per pound was accepted.

On motion of the war emergency committee it was agreed to pay Captain D. J. Proudfoot, chief air raid warden, $100 per month. The salary of Miss M. A. Rathbone, A.R.P. secretary and stenographer, was set at $85 per month.

At the suggestion of Alderman Wills it was decided to hold silent tribute in memory of those who have fallen in the war at the commencement of every council meeting. Mayor McGavin was also asked to appoint a special committee to investigate the possibility of an honor roll of citizens who have given their lives in the war.

MOTIONS PASSED

On motion of Alderman George sympathy was extended to Dr. Richard Felton, city medical health officer, who is ill in the Royal Jubilee Hospital. On motion of Alderman Wills the council decided to send a letter of congratulation to Mrs. Henry A. Larsen, whose husband, Sergeant Larsen, R.C.M.P., negotiated a West-East voyage through the Northwest Passage in command of Ms. St. Roch. A by-law to alter the classification of property on Edward Street from single-family to commercial was passed.

Alderman Gadsden asked members of the police commission to reconsider their decision regarding an appeal that members of the police force be exempted from calls for military service. He said he was opposed to any exemptions for constables. Commissioners will report to the council on their reasons.

THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

FROM EUROPE DAY BY DAY

British and American aircraft, ships and one destroyer being hit.

British troops on arrival at Antsirabe in Madagascar were enthusiastically welcomed by the French people who cheered King George and presented the troops with flowers. Nine hundred and fifty French officers and men at Diego Suarez have already joined General De Gaulle—three-quarters of the existing strength of the garrison.

Greek guerrilla bands are now operating in large numbers in the mountains of Epirus, Macedonia and Thessaly, attacking Italian troops. Some in the districts of Kastoria and Florina are in touch with Yugoslav troops under General Mihailovitch. Greek traitors who have disclosed the whereabouts of British soldiers who have not yet been able to escape from Greece have been found with their throats cut. Secret newspapers are keeping up Greek hopes of ultimate liberation, says the Istanbul correspondent. Italians are seizing prominent Greek citizens for internment in Italy.

Editorially, The Times says there is no enthusiasm either in Canada or Britain for chaining Nazi prisoners of war in reprisal for manacling United Kingdom and Canadian prisoners in Germany. Merely verbal protest would have seemed both to British and Canadians too weak. At the same time the whole motion of reprisals is hateful and its futility is apparent. In a competition to inflict hardships on helpless victims the Germans will always win. Obviously what the Nazis seek is to stoke up fires of hatred against the British partly to restrain by terror constant British raids on the mainland of Europe. The best answer to this says The Times is for the military to wage relentless war.

Dealing with France's plight, The Times says the country's agonies are moving towards a new crisis arising from Nazi demands for French slave labor.

THANKSGIVING PRAISE GIVEN

Will of God Will Be Carried Out, Says Dean Elliott in Monday Sermon

His theme the thought that God will see the thing through. Very Rev. S. H. Elliott, Dean of Columbia, in a Thanksgiving sermon on Monday morning, emphasized that there must be co-operation with God in the achievement of His purposes.

The service was held under the auspices of the Ministerial Association of Victoria in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was conducted by Rev. H. A. McLeod. Rev. J. L. W. McLean, of St. Andrew's, offered prayers.

Dean Elliott took as his text Isaiah xiv, 24, "The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand."

It was a day of thanksgiving to God, particularly for His guidance and blessing in the rise and growth of the Dominion of Canada, Dean Elliott said.

HIS WILL PREVAILED

"One's lesson these days is that we cannot think of our own country and its history as a self-contained unit, we belong to the history of the wide world. As we cast our minds back through the long story of the ages, we see that again and again the will of God was thwarted by aggressors and tyrants and by the weakness of those who should have been strong in faith, as when good seed falls by the wayside, or on stony ground, or among thorns, yet God's will prevailed and there was good ground which brought forth the fruit of better things.

"What then," the preacher asked, "is to be the practical issue of these thoughts?"

It cannot be enough, he urged, that they should create a passive resignation, an endurance of present trials.

"Rather we should be roused to a valorous co-operation with God in the speeding on of the achievement of His purposes. We will be loyal to the long years through which our forefathers, amid distress and disaster, have striven to hand down to us the high purpose of the will of God.

"Then our efforts shall not be in vain. As God has purposed, so shall it stand. Jesus shall reign."

VICTORIAN RELEASED FROM INTERNMENT

Bob Kerr, of Victoria, is among five British Columbians who are expected to reach Vancouver tomorrow after being released from an internment camp in Eastern Canada, where they had been held as members of the Communist Party of Canada.

The other men are Tom Ewen, Bill Rigby, Fergus McKean and Harry Assen, of Vancouver.

Kerr was active in labor unions in British Columbia, but was working as a mechanic in Victoria during 1940 when he was sent to an internment camp. He is a veteran of the first Great War.

The first communication received from Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hopkins, Nanchang, Kiangsi, China, was received this week by his brother, Mr. H. L. Hopkins, Tennyson Avenue. The letter states they had both been seriously ill, but were slowly recovering. Mr. Hopkins writes: "We are kept in peace and our needs supplied day by day."

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hopkins have many friends in Victoria and district, having visited here several times when on furlough. Their last visit was three years ago when they gave a number of talks on mission work in China.

Everyone interested is invited to attend. Post wardens are asked to inform their district warden as to the number likely to be present.

MANY ATTEND DAVIS FUNERAL

Notables of Newspaper and Writing Circles Pay Last Respects

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Notables of newspaper and writing circles and business leaders were among the 500 persons who attended funeral services today for Bob Davis, 66, veteran newspaper reporter, three-year-old reporter, editor, author and dramatist who conducted the "Bob Davis Reveals" column in the New York Sun.

Davis, who also was an honorary lifetime member of The Associated Press staff in recognition of an interview with Benito Mussolini after the fourth assassination attempt on the dictator, died Sunday in Montreal.

Services were held here at St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church.

During a span of sixty-five years in literary life, Mr. Davis also was columnist, publisher, war correspondent and editorial executive of The New York Sun. But it was perhaps for his own column that he was best known to millions who read it in numerous newspapers.

A native of Brownsville, Neb., he knew Canada better than most of his countrymen and better than many Canadians. In search of stories and good fishing spots, he toured throughout the Dominion.

His favorite fishing grounds were in the Lake of the Woods district of Ontario, which he rarely failed to visit once a year.

For the past fifteen years, Bob Davis' column had been written from all parts of the world.

As a war correspondent, Mr. Davis "covered" much of Europe in the First Great War. He reported the earlier events of the present conflict until the Nazi occupation of France. He was the last newspaperman to leave France.

WILL BE REIMBURSED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Charles H. Koch, of Minneapolis, who spent $447 for the funeral of a young seaman he had been informed erroneously was his son, will be reimbursed by the Government under a bill just signed by President Roosevelt.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 13 (AP)—One Japanese admiral lost more than "face" when the marines landed on Guadalcanal.

Lieut. John E. Flaherty told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Flaherty, in a letter received today:

"The Japanese left their breakfast half-eaten, and I saw an admiral jump head first through the wall of his grass hut, dressed only in his underwear."

ONE DAY MY HUSBAND SAID—
"I'M TIRED OF WEARING SHIRTS THAT LOOK HALF-WASHED"

Now my husband raves about his brighter shirts

HUSBAND: Gosh, Lucy, my shirts have a brand-new look this week. How did you do it?

WIFE: Easy as pie! I just put a touch of Sunlight Soap at the extra-dirty spots. Then, when I washed the clothes my usual way, Sunlight's "extra-soapiness" just eased out the dirt and grease.

HUSBAND: Great stuff! No "half-washed" look about the clothes this week.

WIFE: Everything is so much brighter now that I use the easy Sunlight method of washing. Grimy work clothes come spotlessly clean in no time; without hard rubbing, either! And Sunlight is all pure soap—that's why it's so kind to my hands, too.

Grand For Dishes Ladies! You'll say Sunlight is just as wonderful for speedier, easier dishwashing and all cleaning. Fairly melts away grease. And Sunlight goes a long, long way even in hardest water.

A FIGHTING SPEECH

At Edinburgh, surrounded by the clans that for generations have presented a bold front to battle and never asked quarter, Mr. Churchill has delivered a fighting speech. While all of his speeches have been characterized by strength and aggressiveness, the Edinburgh address may go down in history as that which marked a turning point on the United Nations' side; when nations of free men gathered their strength about them, shook off the last retreat, and marched forward unitedly towards victory. For never before has such a challenge been flung in the teeth of those who would enslave mankind.

Paying a sincere tribute to the United States, to Russia and to China, Mr. Churchill showed just how far the cause of free men has advanced in two years time; from the days when Europe lay prostrate at the feet of the conqueror, when men, women and children were being butchered wholesale by a victory-swollen enemy, and when the British Empire stood alone in the breach. Mr. Churchill put his finger on the spot when he said that every Axis victory had so far proved a stepping stone to ruin, and every United Nations' defeat a stepping stone to victory. Graphically he pictured "the ring of doom remorselessly closing around" those men who had led the world into chains.

It was realization of ultimate defeat, said Mr. Churchill, which had now occasioned "the dull, low whining note of fear" in the utterances of Hitler and of his warlords, and of "his somewhat ridiculuuus confederate, Mussolini." Fear of the "victories" that could never be consolidated; fear of the countless thousands of "conquered" people, upon whom had been visited unbridled savagery; fear of the hate sown with both hands throughout Europe, and of grim, grim reaping. Already, the shadow was on the wall; and with it, growing black and ominous, the doom of those who had carried the naked sword against the defenceless races of mankind.

There was pride in Mr. Churchill's utterance, too. It was the simple pride of a great leader, who was speaking for a nation that had proved unconquerable. It was pride in the knowledge that Britain's finest hour had found her ready. It was pride in the fighting Chinese; in the unbeaten legions of Russia, who had defended Leningrad, Moscow and Stalingrad to the very death; and it was pride in the gathering men and arms of the United States of America, coming with full force and full heart into the epic counter-thrust freedom against tyranny. Who will not say that, upon all counts, that pride was justified and earned?

The realist always, Mr. Churchill warned of the heat of battles to come. He envisioned an enemy embittered, desperate, and vengeful even to the point of wreaking his spleen against hapless prisoners. He foretold the stern, grim effort that must espouse freedom, and set free the chains of all mankind. There is in this no easy, quiet road; but war, and war to the finish, until the greatest menace the world has ever known has been driven from the face of the earth. But as to the arrival of that day, Mr. Churchill left none in doubt; not even those who sit, and quake behind their boasted conquests.

AN ANCIENT GRUDGE

It has long been the custom among many of our public men to speak honeyed words about what happened in the Revolutionary Era of the American colonies. The British press almost invariably shows friendliness to American sentiments on that subject. Canadian good will is usually extended towards our neighbors on the Fourth of July. The history of the Republic is not a long one, but Americans are naturally proud of it and inclined to be impatient of any criticism of their country, its institutions, or its history. In the circumstances and perhaps with the laudable idea of letting bygones be bygones, it has been usual among British commentators to speak of the revolt of the colonies, the character and quality of the leaders in that movement, the Boston Tea Party, the Declaration of Independence, and so on, as if the Americans of that day were pretty nearly always in the right and the British nearly always wrong. As for the Americans it is not surprising that they still recount with undiminished enthusiasm the familiar legend of the Revolution, the gallant "struggle for freedom" from the "tyranny" of George the Third, their unconquerable determination to achieve independence, and the splendid heroism of the revolting colonists.

However, a good deal of water has flowed under the bridges since 1776. It is time that all traces of the ancient grudge should be erased from our memories. Have we not enjoyed more than a century and a quarter of peace and increasing friendship and understanding between the British Empire and the United States? Did not our own King George the Sixth lay a wreath at the tomb of Washington? Are we not allies in the present war? Was not the Atlantic Charter the joint work of Roosevelt and Churchill? It is therefore with almost complete detachment that we can ask: "What did really happen in 1776, and why did our American brethren go in for rebellion and separation?

It is advisable in these cases to consult the historians. Professor Goldwin Smith was probably as free from bias as any of the historians of the Revolution. His opinion is that the colonists did not revolt because of oppression by the Old Country. Evidence given by colonial leaders is against any such idea. Benjamin Franklin, for example, said he had never heard from anyone, drunk or sober, the expression of a wish for separation. John Adams said, as late as March, 1775, that it was the greatest slander upon the people of Massachusetts to suggest that any of them wanted independence. Jefferson averred that before the Declaration of Independence he had never heard a whisper of disposition towards separation. Washington said in October, 1774, that he was well satisfied that no thinking man in North America desired independence. John Adams confessed that when he first broached the idea of separation he was avoided as a man infected with leprosy.

Discontent, however, began when the colonists were told that they must contribute to their own defence. Statesmen like Chatham and Burke were opposed to the idea, but unfortunately politicians like Grenville and Townshend contrived to have their way and the fateful struggle began. Samuel Adams in New England and Henry Clay in the South were the chief fomenters of the quarrel. Adams, according to Goldwin Smith, "devoted himself body and soul to breaking the link that bound America to England," at the same time "coining for this or that body phrases full of reverence for the King and rejecting the thought of independence." Clay was a slave-holder. He bought and sold slaves, and by his will bequeathed slaves along with his cattle. He was the "patriot orator." He knew something of the system of slavery and might well utter the sentiment, "Give me liberty or give me death!" Adams and Clay, though they were both of them failures in business, were highly successful as political agitators.

Some historians say, and others repeat, that the physical distance between the Mother Country and the colonies made communication so slow and difficult that political separation was the natural thing and bound to come in the long run. This opinion has been put forward as a sort of axiom that does not admit of discussion. It is of no avail to point to Canada and the other Dominions as a sufficient refutation of this dictum. However, when fortune frowns things can easily go wrong. British army officers and office-holders were probably guilty of indiscretions. Occasions of dispute easily multiply. That some of the colonists had real grievances admits of little doubt, but that the King or his Government had any design or intention "to reduce the colonists under absolute despotism" is a proposition that history cannot accept. Some measures of repression there were, which, however, were provoked by popular outrage. The historian suggests that it is rather absurd to speak, as the Declaration does, of "the patient sufferings of colonists," who had sacked the houses and maltreated the persons of the King's officers, burnt his revenue cutter, and flung the goods of merchants trading under his flag into the sea.

Among the causes of the revolt may have been the sentiments and habits of thought of the Puritan elements of the population. Their opinions naturally tended toward independence. On the political side, Puritanism was tinctured with republicanism. Moreover, there is in all communities another element that is only too ready to defy authority and swell the forces of disorder. The Boston Tea Party, though applauded by some American historians, was a discreditable episode. Its unhappy sequel was the persecution of the Loyalists, whose only crime was that of holding "opinions which twenty years before had been the universal belief of every class of society."

The colonists have been represented as an oppressed people struggling for freedom—freedom of speech, of the press, and the right to worship in their own way. They were so described the other day by a radio commentator who volunteered the information that America is now the only country that enjoys those freedoms! If those who think in this way could find time to revise some of their ideas of what actually occurred in those early days they might free their minds from the tyranny of prejudice and forget, once and for all, the ancient grudge engendered at that time. When a grudge is allowed to rankle in our breasts it can hardly fail to becloud our minds and pervert our judgments. This is a time when clear thinking and right conduct are essential to the safety of all of us.

THE ISLAND'S FRIEND

Vancouver Island has lost a sincere and faithful friend in the person of Robert H. (Bob) Davis, noted United States newspaperman, whose death was reported from Montreal on Sunday, following a recent illness. Quiet in manner, "human" to the core, Mr. Davis had delighted many readers with his ambling rambles on this island; into which crept so much that was charming and lovable.

Mr. Davis will be missed, not alone on the east coast of Vancouver Island, where he brought considerable adventure and travel in search of the dog "Mike," but over a much wider section of British Columbia and of Canada. For here was one who saw all things north of the border with kindly, human eyes; and told about them in a simple, unstressed and lovable fashion.

To those privileged to know him in person, the passing of Mr. Davis will come with a sense of personal shock. For to meet him was to experience in fact all that glowed in his quiet and charming tales. A writer, traveler, and student of mankind from its original text, Mr. Davis leaves an enviable record behind him. But that will be only slight recompense for the many who have felt, and returned, the warm clasp of his hand. Vancouver Island has lost a champion and a friend.

WORLDLY WISDOM

It is not every man that can afford to wear a shabby coat; and Worldly Wisdom dictates to her disciples the propriety of dressing somewhat beyond their means, but of living somewhat within them—for every one sees how we dress, but none see how we live, except we choose to let them. But the truly great are, by universal suffrage, exempted from these trammels, and may live or dress as they please.—Colton.

We commend a horse for his strength, and sureness of foot, and not for his rich caparisons; a greyhound for his share of heels, not for his fine collar; a hawk for her wing, not for her jesses and bells. Why, in like manner, do we not value a man for what is properly his own? He has a great train, a beautiful palace, so much credit, so many thousand pounds a year, and all these are about him, but not in him.—Montaigne.

Anxiety is the poison of human life. It is the parent of many sins, and of more miseries. In a world where everything is doubtful, where you may be disappointed, and be blessed in disappointment, what means this restless stir, and commotion of mind? Can your solicitude alter the cause or unravel the intricacy of human events?—Blair.

She's adorned
Amply, that in her husband's eye looks lovely—
The truest mirror that an honest wife
Can see her beauty in!

—John Tobin.

Natures that have much heat, and great and violent desires and perturbances, are not ripe for action till they have passed the meridian of their years.—Bacon.

Note and Comment

By SANDHAM GRAVES

Western Front—The United Nations were firing alternately from both barrels in the air last week, as Western Europe seethed and the Germans proclaimed martial law in the Trondheim section of Norway. British and Canadian bombers struck hard at north and northwestern Germany in concentrated raids on Osnabruck, Essen and elsewhere. United States bombers, with Allied escort, carried out their hardest daylight attack of the war, when 100 bombing machines accompanied by several hundred fighters visited Lille. An air-frame factory at Meaulte, in the Albert district, and a power station at Hengelo, Holland, were left in flames during other raids. By day and by night, as the weather permitted both British and United States flyers drove hard against rail traffic, assembly points and other objectives on the occupied coast all week long. The R.A.F. was back over northern Germany as the period closed. The Luftwaffe lost some fifty planes in attempting to defend Lille; and their reply on Great Britain was thin and scattered. During the week, the Admiralty announced the loss of H.M.S. Coventry, an anti-aircraft cruiser, in unstated action. In Parliament at New Westminster, the House voted 360 to 17 in support of the administration's stand on the Indian question, after frank speeches from the Government side. Mr. Churchill, speaking at the week-end and almost at the same time as Mr. Roosevelt, made one of the most optimistic reviews he has yet given of the war. The President of the United States told of his tour of his own country, and said United States production was now hitting its stride. Both leaders referred to Allied aims to draw off some of the eight of attack from Russia and China by new fronts at the first available opportunity. At Trondheim thirty-four people were executed in a German reign of terror; while the enemy's nerves also showed in a flare-up over a small Commando raid upon Sark, where five German prisoners were taken, and four of them shot while trying to escape. Without excuse there, the Germans switched their complaint to the treatment of prisoners at Dieppe; and a long and wordy battle began over the manacling of prisoners of war, something the Allies had not done. In Canada, three new ministers joined the Mackenzie King Cabinet: Major-Gen. L. R. La Fleche, National War Services; M. Ernest Bertrand, Fisheries; and M. Alphonse Fournier, Public Works. The United States placed a ban on gold mining, and took other steps aimed at the control of inflation. September was shown as a successful month in anti-submarine warfare in the Atlantic; and fresh contingents arrived in Great Britain, including United States and Canadian troops, whose crossing had been without event.

Eastern Front—In its fiftieth day of siege, Stalingrad was in much the same position it had been a week ago. In the interval, very hard fighting on an almost continuous pattern had taken place in the northwest suburbs, around Orlovka, and elsewhere in the west and the southwest. At mid-week the Germans simulated a withdrawal, only to return in fresh force. Their gains, however, were held to slight advances upon single, fortified streets. On the northwest flank, the Russians, attacking, had widened a wedge through the German lines, and were pressing this advantage. In the west and southwest of Stalingrad, field positions remained much unchanged; save that in the deep flank to the southwest the Germans had begun a fresh threat, aimed at the Caspian Sea direct. This widened the battle of Stalingrad to a larger movement, one for the possession of navigation on the Volga, which was being fought with continued fury as the period closed. At the shores of the Black Sea, the Germans made slight gains north of Tuapse; but south of Mozdok, in the central peninsula, fresh thrusts were stopped, with small gains. While the position of Stalingrad continued critical, German attackers had taken consistently heavy losses there; without as yet having gained either the Caucasus gate, or the lower reaches of the Volga River. There was some evidence that one or both thrusts would be pressed with desperation in the few weeks remaining before Winter sets in. Already rain, mud and snow were reported on part of the long front. In the far north, the Russians won a sharp success over Finnish forces in local actions; and claimed successful attacks on German troop transports in the Baltic Sea, where two transports and some smaller vessels were put down. Russian morale remained high; and it was the aggressor who displayed both exasperation and nervousness as the period closed.

Other Fronts—Though generally on the aggressive in the southwestern Pacific and also in the Aleutian Islands, and with material gains to show for that, the United Nations had one delayed piece of bad news to report. It was that three United States heavy cruisers had been struck by accurate gunfire in a night action against the Japanese in the Solomon Islands engagement of some weeks ago; had sustained punishing hits, and had subsequently gone down with some loss of life. H.M.A.S. Canberra was hit in the same action, and sank. Field and air action in the Solomons and in New Guinea took a favorable turn for the allied forces. Marines stood off fresh Japanese reinforcements landed on Guadalcanal Island, captured four heavy guns before they could be brought into action, and advanced their grip on the chain to the northwest. A heavy Japanese air attack on the main airfield there was stopped, with punishing losses to the enemy. At sea, United States flyers found two Japanese cruisers and two destroyers northwest of the same zone, and landed a number of hits on the two heavier craft. Rabaul, Buna, and other bases in the southwestern Pacific were raided in increasing strength, much shipping being struck in port, and numbers of Japanese planes being brought down. The total of enemy aircraft alone rose to 220 machines since the action opened. Meanwhile at New Guinea, Australian field forces pushed Japanese rearguards steadily back towards the passes in the Stanley Mountains; made contact with the main body of the enemy; and maintained a steady pressure, as the Japanese retreat continued down the northern slope of the hills. In the Aleuts, the Japanese were found to have abandoned Attu and Agattu Islands, and to have concentrated at Kiska Harbor, where frequent and sustained raids were driven home by United States and Canadian pilots. Canadian naval craft were also said to have participated in general support in the northwest zone. Operating from new bases in the Andreanof Islands, west of Dutch Harbor, Allied aircraft made repeated attacks on Kiska, leaving flames and wreckage on shore. A lull in the Mediterranean, broken by a forty-eight hour air attack on Malta, when more than forty enemy planes were dropped, was featured principally by heavy Allied attacks on Axis Libyan and other bases, and by enemy efforts to reinforce Rommel's forces in the desert. No field action was reported. In Burma, the United Nations kept up a persistent bombing of Burmese bases in Japanese hands. Occupation of Madagascar proceeded, with only light resistance encountered. In China, the thirty-first anniversary of the birth of the republic under the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen was celebrated, amid sincere and hearty congratulations from all members of the United Nations. Great Britain and the United States announced their intention of abandoning forever all claims to extra-territorial rights in China, as a free-will offering to the new republic, fighting with tenacity and success in the sixth year of its war with Japan. Field reports from that action continued favorable, with Chinese troops pressing the advantage against a much pre-occupied foe. As yet, the meaning of this enemy pre-occupation had not been signalled, though it had become marked on several fronts. On the west coast of this continent, an United States tanker was torpedoed at sea, most of her crew being saved.

Observation Car

By G. B.

From our namesake Victoria, Texas, come the following news item: "You do not have to be on the battlefield to have your troubles. Flying Field Sergeant Larry Gennardo has discovered. Gennardo drove into camp just before midnight curfew, parked his car and sprinted for barracks. Suddenly the sound of an automobile horn shattered the night. Muttering lately, the sergeant dashed back to his car, flung up the hood and yanked wires loose. The noise kept on. He yanked some more wires. The 'beep' continued. Finally he realized the noise was not coming from his car. Gennardo started down a row of parked cars trying to find the culprit. He almost located the noise when it stopped. He started to dash for the barracks again. The horn came to life once more. He raced back as shouts began to come from the barracks. The horn began to blow intermittently, as if sending in Morse code. He started lifting hoods and pulling wires at random. The blowing stopped. He sighed in relief and started for the barracks. Half a block away the blast sounded once more. He stuck his fingers in his ears and continued on his way, but not in time to make the curfew. The next morning the sergeant was blamed for the noise. He was counted A.W.O.L. for missing curfew. He was charged with reckless destruction of property. Four tough soldiers warned him they expected payment for damage to wiring in their cars. Gennardo was heard to exclaim: 'What more trouble could Hitler give me?' . . . Montreal has adopted a curfew by-law which requires children under fourteen years of age to be off streets; lanes or out of public places after 10 o'clock in the evening unless they are on the way home from night schools, or accompanied by a parent, tutor, relative or guardian. Parents of children who ignore the order are liable to a fine of $2 and costs.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of October 14, 1892)

A Household Upset—The Custom House has for the past couple of weeks been practically in the hands of the painter, decorator and paperhanger. The various departments have, in turn, been handed over to these gentlemen who yesterday took possession of the Collector's office. That official has taken up temporary quarters in the room occupied by the Chinese interpreter. It is expected that the old house will appear in its artistic new dress towards the end of the week.

A Novelty and a Capital Day's Sport—For some time past, two well-known citizens have had in hand a project that should be a most attractive feature on the water. It is the offering of a cash prize for the sealing schooner that can run to Port Angeles and return in the shortest space of time. Each schooner is to take a suitable number of passengers, who will be charged a nominal figure for the round trip. It will show one phase of life on a sealing schooner, and be a novelty that few have experienced. The affair will be fully announced in a few days.

Masquerade Ball—There will be a grand masquerade ball in the Philharmonic Hall next Tuesday evening. Good music will be furnished and a prize offered for the best lady waltzer in costume. All maskers will be identified at the doors, and every effort made to keep the affair very select.

KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING

ON THE RECORD

—By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The President's statement that persons responsible for crimes against international law committed during this war would be punished thereafter, and that enemy peoples as a whole would not be held responsible has a double significance.

It is an answer to what has became Hitler's strongest internal propaganda. Namely, that if Germany loses the whole German people will be exterminated in revenge for the atrocities in Europe.

In fact, it almost seems as though the Nazis are pursuing the atrocities with a political purpose in mind that goes beyond the subjection of the conquered. Namely, the conscious creation of such hatred of Germany that the Nazis can warn the German people: 'Either we win or all perish together.'

As a matter of fact, Hitler said just this in his last speech.

The answer to that is Roosevelt's statement, "The number of those found guilty will undoubtedly be extremely small compared to the total enemy populations."

I do not know exactly what the President means by "extremely small." One-half of 1 per cent of the German population would be 400,000. It is an error to believe that a mere handful of people are alone responsible for the unexampled atrocities perpetrated in Europe by the occupying forces. One can bring a case against the entire Gestapo and the entire S.S., whom even the Germans call under their breaths "Die Mordbuben" (the Murder-Apaches).

Nor are all the crimes being committed in the occupied countries. There are the organized crimes committed in Germany itself—crimes which will presumably be left to the vengeance of the German people.

The effectiveness of the President's statement, as part of a psychological campaign, will depend upon how it is exploited and how specific it is made.

NO COMPROMISE PEACE

Its second significance is that it closes the door to any compromise peace with the criminals presently ruling Germany. The President, in calling these war criminals the "ring-leaders," points to the Nazi gang. But we know that there are generals—for instance, Stulpnagel in Paris—who are equally guilty of every conceivable breach of humane practice or international law. And this means that a compromise peace with such men is equally out of the question.

This should be made clear to the German people, and they should be advised, in the interest of saving their own skins, to sever any connection they may have with the guilty.

It seems to me that this requires two actions: First, a definition of what constitutes guilty acts, and second, the devising of a means by which the innocent can create alibis for themselves.

The Declaration of Independence, with its "decent respect for the opinion of mankind," draws up a specific bill of accusations against the oppressors of the American colonists.

A similar bill of accusations ought it seems to me, to be drawn up by the Office of War Information and widely publicized not only abroad but at home. I would like to see posters plastered over walls from one end of this nation to another, listing the crimes against which we are fighting.

INTERNATIONAL LAW

For we risk losing our ethical sense, which is the basis of righteous indignation, and it is not clear in people's minds, either here or abroad, that there are certain things allowable in the practices of civilized nations and under international law, and there are others that neither war nor conquest condone legally or ethically.

Such things are: The shooting of innocent hostages without semblance of trial, or any presumption, even, of personal guilt—a pure instrument of terrorization.

Forced labor of prisoners of war, outside prison camps, and especially for military purposes. There is an international obligation given by all countries that prisoners of war must be fed rations equal to those of the armed forces of the nation holding them prisoner. This is why the Nazi and Japanese internees in this country are so well fed—we are keeping our obligations. The Germans are treating different groups of prisoners in different ways—British prisoners, for instance, fairly well because Britain holds German prisoners and the Germans fear reprisals.

Forcible drafting of civilians from occupied countries for war work in German factories. Absolutely unheard of in the history of modern nations.

THE NAZI SYSTEM

Forcible induction of the women of conquered countries into brothels, for the German Army. There is documentary evidence to prove this in Poland.

Systematic extermination of populations by interference with marriage laws, by shifting of whole populations from one area to another, by separating married couples from each other and from their children; by depriving them of medical aid, and by starvation.

Reprisals for individual deeds carried out against whole villages.

Extermination of intellectuals and massacres of students, carried through for the purpose of removing any potential leadership for a future national life.

Enemy peoples should be presented with a bill of atrocities and informed that unless they devise means for disassociating themselves from these crimes, they will be held responsible, and we should put our wits to work trying to help them find such means. We should say to the German people and German soldiers: Every victim who survives by reason of your help is a testimony for you. And to the peoples of the occupied countries: Prepare your dossiers on the decent as well as on the wicked. For the day of judgment is at hand.

The pilot had taken great pains to explain all about his machine to the pretty young visitor at the airport—its mechanical features, purpose of this and that, what pilots did to meet actual flying conditions, and so on. He looked at the girl and smiled. "Now you understand, don't you?"

"All but one thing," replied the girl.

"And what is that?"

"What makes the thing stay up?"

Offhand, it would appear that East-West would have been better advised to outbid the three spade contract with four clubs, but considering that three spades could have been defeated a trick and that four clubs could not have been made, it is not with the East-West bidding that we should find fault.

West made an excellent opening lead, the spade king. This lead, in itself, with the proper follow-up meant that declarer could not ruff a club in dummy. Declarer made the attempt, but to no avail. The spade ace won the first trick and a club was returned. West jumped up with the queen and took out dummy's trumps by cashing the queen and jack. So far, the defence had been flawless, but now West made a fatal play. He laid down the club ace. As mentioned above, this was certainly the "natural" thing to do, but observe its effect.

On the third club lead declarer ruffed, then led his low heart to the ace. He returned to the king of diamonds and ran off every trump. After the last trump was played declarer still had the heart ten and two low diamonds. Dummy was down to the ace, queen and another diamond, and East had to choose a discard from these four cards: Heart king, diamonds jack, ten and eight. Obviously, whatever discard he chose would be fatal. Actually, he let go the heart king, hoping that West had the ten spot, but now South was able to cash the heart ten before leading diamonds to dummy. If East had discarded all of dummy's diamonds would have been good.

Now observe how different the result would have been if West had timed his defence just a little better. His action in drawing dummy's trumps and preventing a club ruff was excellent, but if he then had shifted to a heart (instead of cashing a club trick) the declarer would have been helpless. The timing for the squeeze play would have been knocked askew and the defenders inevitably would have taken one heart, two spades, and two clubs.

Daring Raid Disables Ship in St. Lawrence

British Freighter in Convoy Hit Amidships in Midday Attack—Four Men Killed—News Writer Eyewitness on Warship

By HAROLD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 13 (CP).—The freighter Frederika Lensen, a medium-sized British merchantmen, was struck amidships by a torpedo in a daring midday attack on a convoy in the St. Lawrence River some time ago.

Four men were killed when the torpedo crashed into the engineroom of the ship off Cap de la Magdeleine. The remaining forty-three crewmen took to the lifeboats and were picked up by naval escorts. The damaged freighter was taken in tow by a corvette and was subsequently beached at a river port.

From the bridge of a Canadian warship I saw the freighter swing out of the convoy line, with thick clouds of steam bursting from her port side, and watched the ship I was on and other escort vessels fan out to protect the remainder of the convoy and hunt the attacker.

HEARD NO EXPLOSION

There was no explosion audible to us. One minute the convoy was steaming along in bright sunlight sparkling on a placid river. The next, the freighter was swinging around, listing to starboard and belching steam from her port side.

As the first steam burst from the stricken ship, our Bangor-class escort leaped ahead from her position half a mile astern of the freighter, a little Fairmile came cutting in on the starboard side and a corvette turned on a dime from her position ahead of the convoy to help.

Even before our ship could hit her racing stride, the "action stations" signal brought the ship's complement to the guns and depth charges in record time.

Ours was the first ship to reach the freighter, just after her starboard lifeboats hit the water and went drifting astern. As we skidded around the wreck in a full-ahead turn we could see a narrow split in her port side, with the plates around the crack bulged outward as though pushed by some internal force.

NO GAPING HOLE

There was no gaping hole such as is usually associated with a torpedo explosion, and there had been no flash of flame when the missile struck. It looked more like a boiler explosion than a torpedo, but the escorts took no chances. Their swift disposition into attack stations made the water close to the convoy a veritable death-trap for any submarine.

One fast look at the freighter to establish the probable direction of the attack, and then we were racing out on the Lensen's port beam with our submarine-detecting asdic sweeping the water in search of a contact.

None came, but off to starboard a Fairmile let go with depth charges that shook us although we were some distance away.

The method of the St. Lawrence attack suggested the sub fired at long range. The freighter hit was riding high in the water, obviously in ballast and without cargo. Just ahead of her were three heavily-laden ships, all of larger size and including one of Canada's new 10,000-ton cargo vessels.

It was thought possible the sub fired a "Browning shot," an extreme range torpedo aimed in the general direction of the convoy in hopes of hitting something, rather than a carefully-aimed shot at one particular ship.

Meanwhile, the senior escort officer aboard the corvette had passed over command of the convoy while he remained behind to tow the freighter to shore.

CONVOY SCATTERED

By this time the convoy was scattered, streaming down the river with every ship cracking on full steam. Two lake vessels were high-tailing in towards shore.

Taking advantage of their shallower draft, they hugged the shoreline to their destinations, comparatively safe from attack in a few feet of water.

Still going full-ahead, we wheeled around in pursuit of the ocean-going ships, which would have made fine, unprotected targets for any submarines lurking farther down the river, until we got them rounded up into convoy formation again.

We passed that night in full expectation of a serious attack. It seems probable the daylight raid had been the work of a single sub for the express purpose of diverting some of the escorts, to leave the convoy more vulnerable to a concerted "wolf-pack" attack that night.

Once during the night it looked as though our expectations were to be realized. Our asdic picked up a hazy contact, but it faded out and after a brief sweep afield we rejoined our charges.

CANADIANS AND U.S. RULE SKY

ran up a remarkable 22-to-1 average against them in the first month and, more important, seem to have exhausted the supply of enemy planes.

The last fighter opposition encountered over Kiska was October 3 when six fighters attempted to pick up some Allied bombers, but neglected to look into the sun. Allied fighters got five of them and sent the other one running for its life.

Since then, United States bombers have been pounding Japanese shore installations and shipping almost daily without seeing enemy planes in the air. A few days after October 3 they sighted five enemy fighters on the water in Kiska Harbor, but they never got off. At least one was destroyed and the others were believed damaged badly.

Reports of the last few days show a few planes here and there on the water, but officers here are inclined to believe most of them were wrecked by strafing or bombing because they make no attempt to get off and apparently are not manned.

TRIED MANY TRICKS

Airmen returning from the raids say Japanese pilots tried all kinds of manoeuvres during the last days of their aerial combat with the Americans, even trying to scare the supposedly green Yanks by faking deliberate collision attempts. However, the Yanks soon recognized the fakes for what they were and no longer veered away when a Japanese plane looked as though it would run into them. Just as they suspected, it was a bluff and the Japanese veered away themselves when they failed to make the Americans change their course. Incidentally, the manoeuvre frequently left the Japanese open to heavy machine-gun or cannon fire.

Recent raids over Kiska, although unopposed in the air, are not any tea parties. Japanese anti-aircraft gunners still are very busy and their aim is improving. Some American planes recently have returned with battle marks.

The Japanese also are stubbornly trying to reinforce Kiska by water. In spite of heavy shipping losses, which now include two large craft beached on the island, they recently have been moving a number of ships in the Kiska area. The Americans and Canadians usually find from one to five ships in the bombing area, although only a very few warcraft have been seen recently.

U.S. BOMBERS SMASH AT ENEMY AIRDROME

"Many direct hits were made in the midst of parked aircraft on the ground," the communique said.

A strong force of Allied medium bombers, during the same night, attacked the Buka airdrome, at the northern tip of the Solomons, causing fires and explosions.

Meanwhile, in the Owen Stanley Mountains of New Guinea, Australian jungle troops continued their advance toward Kokoda despite Japanese resistance.

The communique said:

"Our ground forces successfully penetrated enemy defence positions north of Myola by frontal and flanking action. Our advance is continuing."

The ground operations were supported by air attacks on the enemy supply lines leading down from the mountains to the invasion base of Buna on the coast.

Attack units with a fighter escort conducted a sweep over the Wairopi area, where they repeatedly had pounded a suspension bridge, and went on to the coast for attack on barges along the beach.

These attacks were followed up by a night raid on the Buka airdrome by heavy bombers.

Allied medium bombers also attacked occupied portions of Dutch Portuguese Timor, and heavy clouds prevented observation of results.

SOVIETS ADVANCE AS NAZIS PAUSE

companies of enemy infantry were said to have been wiped out.

Fighting also was renewed on the northwest front, between Moscow and Leningrad, where the Germans launched an attack but were repelled with 400 killed.

The new lull in the Stalingrad battle came after the Germans had brought up reinforcements for a new attempt to take the Volga stronghold but failed to make any important gains.

After yielding a single street yesterday, the Russians reported the Red Army was holding everywhere about the Volga city as the Germans struggled to pump new life into their faltering assaults.

BATTLE AT FACTORY

In one sector the battle swirled about the shell of the Stalingrad tractor factory, one of the Soviet Union's greatest industrial achievements. Just as the Russians destroyed the $100,000,000 Dnieper River dam, they reported the giant tractor plant had been sacrificed in the national defence.

The Government newspaper said the Germans were firing trench mortar shells into the empty buildings where thousands upon thousands of workers once turned out machines for Russia's collective farms.

There was only one bit of activity there at last accounts — workmen staying close to a wall to keep from being hit by shells were reported nonchalantly repairing four damaged tanks.

In the Caucasus the Russians lashed out with offensive sorties of their own and were reported cutting into several sectors of the Mozdok area. There the Germans have been stalled for weeks in their drive toward the Grozny oil fields.

The Berlin radio reported that the Russians had rushed up forces in the Smolensk sector, on the central front west of Stalingrad, and in the Rzhev area, northwest of the Soviet capital, in preparation for offensives.

Recruits Throng Naden Hoping to Join W.R.C.N.S.

"Any girl going with the 'Wrens' will find advancement, and promotion will be awarded her for her own efforts, and must be won through the ranks," stated Third Officer Grace Brodie, who has arrived here from Toronto to start the first recruiting for the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service in British Columbia, during a discussion yesterday in which she outlined the qualifications necessary for recruits.

Applicants have been turning up in large numbers at the recruiting headquarters, H.M.C.S. Naden, and Officer Brodie reports they come from "definitely a very fine type of girl." She says the response to the drive is "very gratifying," and adds "they are coming in, and coming in rapidly."

TO RELEASE MEN

The underlying purpose of the "Wrens" is to release men from shore establishments and replace them in any work which can be taken over by women. Cooks and stewards are the most necessary posts to fill at the moment, but these are only two branches of the service, and need not discourage women from applying for other categories. There are jobs in motor transports, stenographers, supply assistants, wireless telegraphists, sick bay attendants (and those with first aid and home nursing certificates will have preference) and clerks.

TO TRAIN AT GALT

"Wrens" will have their uniforms supplied and their "kit issue" when they have actually joined the service. They will go to Galt, Ont., for a month's basic training, which includes study of naval traditions, customs, history and official procedure, and drill similar to that given the men in the navy. Women eligible for the service are those between the years of eighteen and forty-five, married or single, but no married women will be accepted with a child under sixteen years of age.

THE girls of Canada's Navy, now in training at their W.R.C.N.S. "ship" at Galt, Ont., have just been issued their new navy uniforms. The uniform is dark blue, with flared skirt and double-breasted coat, fastened with black buttons. The pork-pie hat is dark blue with the tally band the same as any able seaman's, with H.M.C.S. in white letters. A regular white shirt has a semi-stiff collar, the tie is black, and the girls wear black Oxfords and stockings. The carryall bag over the shoulder is called a pouchette. In the Winter, wool gloves are worn. Next Summer a lighter uniform will be given out, and the stockings will be white instead of black. Here is pictured Thelma Snook, of Windsor, and Sheila Florance, of Winnipeg, who enjoy a walk during intermission from drill at the Galt School of Training.

Officer Grace Brodie was one of the original sixty-seven who took the basic training course at Kingsmill House, Ottawa.

Several Victoria women were among those enrolled in the basic training class at Guelph. Between sixty and seventy women throughout Canada will be taken each week at the Galt establishment until 250 are constantly passing through each month as graduates. Three Victoria girls will report October 22 for the course at Galt: Miss E. L. Houlding, 1397 Minto Street; Miss Molly McCallum, Woodlawn Crescent, and Miss Henrietta Rea, 615 St. Charles Street. Miss D. A. Duncan, of Duncan, will also report.

SOUTH SALT SPRING

The quarterly meeting of the South Salt Spring Red Cross was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shaw, Fulford, the president, Father Scheelen, in the chair. It was stated that in compliance with a request to assist with the Victoria Red Cross garden party on August 12, tickets for contests had been disposed of and a large box of home cooking sent. In July the sum of $35.15 had been realized by contests, a stall, tea and tennis at a garden party held at the home of W. J. C. Hamilton, Fulford. GIRLS FORM EXTRA SERVICE

"We have started our high school girls off on a new Red Cross project," writes Mrs. Freda Harrison, of Port Moody. "So many young mothers of small babies expressed a willingness to work but found it impossible to get out to Red Cross meetings. We asked the high school girls to act as an 'extra service' group to take Red Cross work to them. Girls, wearing volunteer arm bands, carry baskets (which they have made) filled with ready-cut materials and wool, which they leave at various homes, listing the materials taken. They call the following week and bring finished articles to the Red Cross workroom. The girls are very pleased to do this service, which does not interfere with their school work. They also do other work for the Red Cross."

RECRUITING AT HEIGHT

Recruiting campaign for the Canadian Red Cross Corps is in full swing in the province and will continue until October 21. Volunteers are wanted for corps detachments and emergency reserve units. There is an opportunity for every woman to take training in the four sections of the corps and reserves—nursing, food and office administration and transport—to be prepared if disaster strikes. Tune in "A Morning Visit," Friday, October 16, at 10 a.m. and hear British Columbia Red Cross Corps officials tell you more about it.

FOOD BOON TO PRISONERS

The Red Cross food sent to prisoners of war is a boon to them, writes one prisoner to the Red Cross. He also describes the German prison camp food: "Bread is distributed twice weekly, and I must admit the loaves are somewhat hard and dark in color. Coffee (ersatz) is served in the mornings. A hot meal which usually consists of meat and vegetables is provided at midday. This could often be more appetizing and served better. The dinner queue is a tiresome problem. At night we have coffee again with cheese, bread and butter or margarine or jam. Most internees prepare an evening meal in their room, supplemented by items from the Red Cross parcels which are received weekly. These parcels are a tremendous boon and a consolation to all, for apart from their food value they constitute a precious link with the home country. I must say the tins of fish, stews, milk, tea, coffee, cocoa, Ovaltine, dried fruits and many other nourishing foods are greatly appreciated."

CALF SOLD MANY TIMES

A calf donated by Mr. and Mrs. George Gowing Frost, at the opening of their new auction market at Abbotsford, realized $74. The "frisky little animal" was auctioned fifteen times.

Weddings

STRONG—SHINER

A pretty home-wedding was celebrated at Tod Inlet on Friday evening when Rev. D. M. Perley united in marriage Irene, only daughter of Mrs. J. Shiner, Tod Inlet, and the late Mr. Shiner, and Cadet Jack William Strong, O.T.C., Gordon Head, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Strong, Winnipeg, Man. The ceremony was performed under a floral arch. Mrs. D. M. Perley played the wedding music, and Mrs. H. Sheret sang "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Stanley E. H. Shiner, and wore a light wool afternoon frock in blue-grey with accessories to match, and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. Her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift of the groom. Mrs. S. Shiner was matron of honor, wearing teal blue with a corsage bouquet of pink carnations, and P.O. Jim Menzies, an old schoolmate of the groom's, was best man. Acting as ushers were Messrs. Alfred Shiner and Lennie Tolson.

A small reception was held later when the bride's mother received the guests dressed in royal blue crepe with a black hat and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses. The supper table was prettily arranged with ping begonias and centred with a three-tier wedding cake made by Mrs. W. Petrie, an old friend of the family.

After a honeymoon in Vancouver, for which the bride donned a black seal coat with a black hat, Cadet and Mrs. Strong will make their home in Red Deer, Alta.

MITCHELL—MARCHANT

The marriage between Ada Isobel, daughter of Mr and Mrs. W. H. Marchant, Clair, Sask., and Mr Norman Fraser Mitchell, son of Mr and Mrs. N. K. Mitchell, Bank Street, Victoria, was solemnized by Venerable Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns in St. Mary's Chapel, Oak Bay, at 12 noon on Friday, October 9.

The bride wore a smart afternoon frock of aqua-green with a chapel veil, and carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds and white chrysanthemums. Attending her as bridesmaid was Miss Ivy Provo, wearing a rust wool dress with a shoulder spray of carnations. Lance-Bombardier E. T. Mitchell was his brother's groomsman.

After the ceremony the happy couple left for a short honeymoon, to be spent Up-Island.

The priest called on an elderly Irish woman. "And how are you today, Bridget?" asked he.

"I'm bad enough, father," she replied. "I've the pain in me arms and the pain in me legs. And I've only two teeth in the whole of me head; but, thanks to God, they're opposite."

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide

* Lists of foods that save you money

To be sure you get full value

You get exactly what you pay for when you buy vegetables by weight, the only accurate way to measure value in the things that Nature grows. That's why Safeway sells produce by the pound—to be sure you get full value. Another thing: Safeway produce is guaranteed fresh and good.

Here are some wonderful ways to prepare Fall fruits and vegetables

They come from the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau and every one has been tested and proved in the Bureau's kitchens.

APPLES. Want a different kind of applesauce? Pour 3 cups unsweetened sauce into a well greased 1½ qt. casserole. Combine 1 cup finely rolled graham cracker crumbs, ⅓ cup sugar, ½ tsp. cinnamon, and ¾ cup finely chopped walnut meats. Sprinkle crumb mixture over applesauce. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 minutes, or until crumb mixture is brown and crisp. Serve hot or cold with whipped or pour cream. Serves 6.

GRAPES. To vary familiar desserts, fold seedless grapes or halves of seeded table grapes into cooled blanc mange, custard, gelatin whip or rice pudding.

PEARS. If you like baked apples you'll vote for baked pears, too. Wash 6 pears. Leave whole; do not pare or core. Make syrup by combining 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup water, and 2 tbsps. lemon juice in saucepan; stir well until completely blended; boil rapidly 5 minutes. Or substitute 1¼ cups maple-flavored syrup for sugar syrup. Place pears in baking dish; pour syrup on top; cover dish. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until almost tender, about 30 minutes. Remove cover; increase heat to 450° F. and bake 10 minutes longer, basting frequently to glaze. Serve warm or chilled. Serves 6.

SQUASH, PUMPKIN, AND SWEET POTATOES. These vegetables are closely related and each may be used for the same type of recipes—baked, in puddings, pies, cookies, custards, and the like. Squash makes unusually delicious custard. Mix ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. ground cloves, ¼ tsp. ginger, ⅛ tsp. nutmeg, and ½ tsp. cinnamon. Beat 2 eggs slightly. Add 1½ cups milk and 1 tsp. grated orange peel; add to sugar-spice mixture, blending well. Add 1 cup sieved steamed Hubbard squash; stir until combined and free from lumps. Pour into individual custard cups; sprinkle with nutmeg or cinnamon. Set in pan of hot water; bake in slow oven (325° F.) 1 hour, or until set. Cool and serve plain or with whipped cream or maple-flavored syrup. Serves 6.

FISH PACKERS END SESSIONS

Plans for Expansion of War Effort Contribution Discussed by Delegates

The considerable contribution of the Pacific Coast fishing industry to the war effort, and the possibilities of extending activities in that direction, were the chief topics discussed during business sessions of the Association of Pacific Fisheries during the convention here.

The programme opened with a tournament on Sunday at the Royal Colwood Golf Club, and the convention, which brought more than 200 delegates and their wives here from cities all along the Coast, closed with an informal dinner and distribution of golf prizes in the Empress Hotel Monday night. Earlier in the evening many of the visitors accepted an invitation to Government House, where they met His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward at tea.

ALL OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

During the business session reports were heard, all officers were re-elected, and trustees were named to complete the board for the coming year.

In his report, the president, V. H. Elfendahl, of Seattle, reviewed the extensive services which he said the association had rendered during the year to the United States Government in connection with the war effort, through the supplying of canned fish to the services.

Discussion was also concerned with the United States Government's purchase of 60 per cent of the total 1942 production of canned salmon by plants in California, Oregon, Washington and Alaska. It was estimated the purchase will involve at least 3,600,000 cases.

OPERATIONAL PROBLEMS

Operational problems created by war conditions were also considered, including manpower, priorities and transportation. Several speakers dealt with the conservation of salmon under the International Sockeye Treaty.

Officers re-elected were Mr. Elfendahl, president; Lawrence Calvert, Seattle, first vice-president; G. V. Graham, Seattle, second vice-president; A. W. Wittig, Seattle, third vice-president; G. B. Peterson, San Francisco, fourth vice-president, and E. D. Clark, Seattle, secretary.

Five trustees were re-elected to the board. They were Daniel Campbell, Bellingham; Mr. Peterson; W. G. Skinner, Seattle; Mr. Calvert, and August Buschmann, Seattle. Harald Synnesvedt, Seattle, was elected, and A. W. Shiels, Bellingham, was named to complete the unexpired term of the late E. B. Deming. Completing the board, with Mr. Elfendahl as chairman, are C. A. Sutter, Mr. Graham, H. B. Friele, P. E. Harris, G. P. Halferty, L. T. Kreielsheimer, Frank Lloyd, William Timson, Mr. Wittig, all of Seattle; E. W. Thompson, Astoria, and C. J. Sebastian, of Medina, Wash.

UNFAIR ADVANTAGE

CHAPTER XLIII

"Well, Guy's a good man—a really good man," Mama Eckert went on imperturbably, putting a plate in the drying rack. "And he's handsome and he comes from—well, I'd say from the same kind of family you do."

Amy was furious! To come downstairs fresh from dreams of Paul, her heart still torn by their separation, and then to be told that Guy —She hadn't thought very much about Guy at the breakfast table, but now she seemed to remember how he had looked—like a big different boy. When Mama Eckert had said, "Here now, Guy, have another piece of coffee cake, you ain't been eating enough," he had looked up gratefully and smiled that rare sweet smile of his.

Amy was struck with the pathos of it, that this man who at thirty-two was counted a success, this man who had surrounded himself with every pleasant thing money could buy, should look so grateful because a kindly woman urged him to eat his breakfast.

Guy seemed to be one of those persons who provide other people with pleasures—whom other people lean upon—without any apparent return.

He had seemed happy that morning—strangely so for a man who was separating from his wife. But Amy couldn't, wouldn't believe that his happiness had anything to do with her.

She didn't attempt to answer Mama Eckert. This wasn't a thing to be coy about. Anyway Mama Eckert had dropped the subject. She handed Amy a letter from Paul.

It was dated New York. It began, "Amy, try to understand me. I am having difficulty in understanding myself. Yesterday I enlisted here. I had intended to enlist. That part I could feel happy over. I did not try to get into an officers' training camp. I did not try to get into any particular branch of the service. I shall go where they send me. I had intended it should be that way. I leave in five days. I have that long to wind up my affairs. But I have no affairs to wind up. If I could go home and marry you —take you up to the mountain cabin—have that time to remember —leave you with my thousand dollars—that would be a true beginning.

"As things are, I shall not go home. To do that would be unendurable. I shall bid you good-bye by mail and wait here.

"As to Frani—I saw her off today to Florida—with several trunk-loads of clothes. I cannot feel sorry for Frani. She says she never loved Guy and yet she is using his money. He gave her a huge allowance and apparently she's saved most of it. There's something cold and practical deep in Frani. But I don't believe her when she says she never loved Guy. I know she did. But I do know Guy does not love her. A man can tell.

"He can tell about himself too. I never loved you as much as I do now—"

The letter was written on both sides of three sheets of paper. Amy read it twice—up there in his room —and wanted to answer it then. But she heard Marcia's voice downstairs and then Mama Eckert called her and she tucked the letter into her suitcase and went down.

Marcia had a letter also—a rather thin one. She had taken it from the envelope and was glancing over it. She looked pale.

"Paul's enlisted in New York," she said. "He writes he won't be back here before he leaves for army camp. It's all so sort of sudden—but I suppose in these times . . ."

She seemed to be waiting for Amy to reassure here. But the only thing Amy could say was, "Yes, in these times—"

Marcia laughed then—a sorry little laugh. "This is the sort of thing you must accept, I suppose, when your man is in the army. But anyway I can have a military wedding. And now, Mama Eckert, please invite me to lunch. I need to be amused and entertained."

By noon she seemed to have regained her equilibrium—even to be rather elated. Perhaps, Amy thought, she was so used to having things come her way she couldn't believe any bad luck could approach her. "I almost forgot," Marcia declared. "I really came to get Amy to go shopping with me."

"I can't leave Daphne," Amy protested. "Papa's making Daphne a cuckoo clock," she said. "He's got wheels and things all around her room. They won't want you in there. A shopping trip's just what you need."

So Amy found herself doing the last thing she would have selected to do—riding down town in Marcia's car.

"Do you know," Marcia confessed, "I'm so elated and yet so restless. It's queer, Amy, but since my engagement's been announced I can't seem to settle down. Of course I've known for two years that I was going to marry Paul. But now—now that I know it's to be soon—Oh, I don't know whether you'll understand . . . Just wait until you're in love."

There was no answer to that. Amy gritted her teeth and smiled.

Then Marcia went on generously. "But when a man does fall in love with you he'll fall hard. Though I suppose a lot of men have been in love with you, Amy. As many as have been in love with Frani. You're not as superbly beautiful as Frani, but you're so little and golden. Do you know—"

She took her eyes off the crowded street ahead to face Amy gravely, diffidently for an instant. "I've had the queerest idea that Guy—"

NEXT TIME

A clergyman was waiting to perform the marriage service, but the bride and bridegroom were late. At last they arrived, and the service was hurried through.

At its close the clergyman turned to the happy pair and said, reproachfully: "You were late—very late. Please remember next time to be more punctual!"

That Body of Yours

PHYSICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL EXAMINATIONS OF RECRUITS

It will be hard to convince some fathers and mothers that any good thing can come from this war. We who are parents can well understand that. However, from the physical standpoint, there is occurring a great saving in health and in life itself because of the thorough physical examination which recruits must undergo.

Just one instance: "In a programme to re-establish or rehabilitate selective service men rejected or deferred on account of tuberculosis, the Illinois State Health Director, Dr. Roland R. Cross, announces —that so far out of 591 men rejected for tuberculosis since November, 1940, the State Health Department has found only twenty-one who, previous to this army examination, had been reported as having tuberculosis."

Just think of this for a minute. Of nearly 600 men rejected for tuberculosis, only twenty-one knew they had tuberculosis or were known to have tuberculosis.

What will be done with this large number of cases?

Those with active tuberculosis will be treated by the State Board of Health in institutions for tuberculosis and those with inactive tuberculosis will be referred to their own physician for medical supervision. "Dr. Cross states that a man is not acceptable to the army for active military duty if he has five or more calcified spots on his lungs; however, such men can safely carry on ordinary civilian activities without undue fear of relapse." A calcified spot is a healed spot with hard lime tissue around it.

Another instance is psychologic testing in the British Army. It is under the direction of a new army department, the General Service Corps, in which recruits undergo their basic training and the corps for which they are best suited is determined. The main factors are physical health, general intelligence, special aptitudes and standard of attainment, which are all tested."

The tests must be practical. Thus recruits for an armored formation were tested and a list was made of the men found unsuitable for service with tanks. After three months the list was compared with practical experience and found to agree within 5 per cent of error. First, a general intelligence test is given on recruiting; second, during training misfits are combed out and transferred; third, the men most suited for training as officers are sifted out.

Certainly from the standpoint of health and happiness in one's work, these physical and psychological tests are a great step forward.

HOW TO HELP WIN THE WAR

WORK

We must roll up our sleeves and tighten our belt, Canada! We've had it too easy in these past three years of war. Now is the time to show that we have the determination and courage to fight. No matter what our job, we'll help to win this war if we give it everything we have. Fighting today includes working hard for our Country, our home and our right to survive as a free people.

SAVE

It's necessary that we save all we can. Spending on things we can do without, betrays Canada to the Axis. We can do without the frills. When we've won victory, we'll have the luxuries again. Right now, there's no better investment for any of us than to put what we save into Victory Bonds, enabling our Country to buy shells, tanks and bombers. That's the way to save Canada — to save all that matters.

LEND

What's your share of the savings job? Well, the average Canadian would have to lend to Canada to meet Canada's need $1 in every $5 of income left after taxes and compulsory savings have been collected. The average may not fit you. Your own circumstances are distinctly your own. You may be able to do better both out of your current income and out of your accumulated savings in the bank—or you may not be able to reach the average. Your share of voluntary savings is every dollar you can possibly spare.

FISHING BOAT OVERDUE

SEATTLE, Oct. 13 (AP). — The seventy-six-foot Seattle halibut fishing boat Helgeland, with a crew of eleven men commanded by Louis Holmes of Juanita, has been long overdue on a fishing trip in the North Pacific, the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association said today.

The vessel was last heard from on September 13 fishing on the deep-sea banks off Kodiak Island.

The golden-eye fly is so-called because the eye in some lights appears to be of burnished gold.

Mother Not to Blame for the Children's Colds

Despite all the mother can do the kiddies will run out of doors not properly wrapped up; have on too much clothing; get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes, and do a dozen things the mother cannot help.

Half the battle in treating children's colds is to give them something they will like; something they will take without any fuss, and this the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, a remedy used by Canadian mothers, for the past 48 years.

Price 35c a bottle; the large family size, about 3 times as much, 60c, at all drug counters.

TREASURER TOURS WESTERN CANADA

Admiration for the beauties of Victoria was expressed yesterday by A. M. Nicholson, M.P. for Mackenzie, Sask., and national treasurer of the C.C.F., during his stay in the city, while on his first tour of Western Canada.

Mr. Nicholson, who spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ken McAllister, 2919 Richmond Road, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Kjekstad, 820 St. Charles Street, commented on the interest shown in the C.C.F. party across Canada. "We people feel we have an important part in the present crisis, and in the days that will come after the war," he said.

A native of Bruce County, Ont., Mr. Nicholson, served as a United Church minister at Hudson Bay Junction before entering politics two years ago. He now resides at Canora, Sask.

The largest grain crop in Canadian history is being harvested on the Prairies this year, according to Mr. Nicholson. Although the labor shortage is causing the farmers trouble, it has been relieved somewhat by help from Ontario and university students, he said.

Anglican Young People

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Highlighted by inspiring addresses by Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia; Very Rev. Dean Spencer Elliott and G. A. A. Hebden, the confrerees wound up a busy three-day session Monday evening with a social rally as guests of the Victoria Local Council at St. John's Church, thus concluding the thirteenth annual British Columbia conference of the Anglican Young People's Association. Discussions, sessions and reporting meetings were exceptionally well attended and enthusiastically followed, while on the social side visitors and local members alike thoroughly enjoyed themselves at the banquet and dance held in the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening and at the regular Sunday evening socials held for servicemen and their friends at Christ Church Cathedral and at St. John's Church. Island members were honored with the majority of positions on the newly-elected Provincial Council, with Ray Hadfield of this city being president and Florence Lemon, of Duncan, first vice-president. Other officers elected were: Patron, the Bishop of Columbia; chaplain, Dean S. H. Elliott; honorary president, L. Dixon; past-presidents, Bob Tiffin and Gladys Harton, of Vancouver; corresponding secretary, Lenora Trickett; recording secretary, Lucy Smith; treasurer, Frank Smith, and Metropolitan appointees, Rev. B. Greig, Phyllis Lambert and Jim Walker.

An interesting point arose during the report on the bursary fund when it was stated that sufficient funds were on hand to again help with the tuition fees for an A.Y.P.A. member at the Anglican Theological College in Vancouver. This will be the third term for this particular student and he will be the first A.Y.P.A. member to be assisted into the ministry by this fund. Among resolutions passed by the members at their final meetings Monday afternoon was one of thanks to all who assisted in the work of the conference, and another which said that greetings from the conference be extended to members of the All-Britain Council carrying on A.Y.P.A. work in the Old Country under very difficult conditions. Sessions were held in St. Mary's Parish Hall and special services and social gatherings in other churches and 105 delegates registered from A.Y.P.A. branches on the Island and Lower Mainland.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL

At the weekly meeting of the Junior A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church Cathedral, held on Friday evening in the Memorial Hall, two new officers were installed: Vice-president, Mary Paterson, and Joan Webb, executive. After the business session, games were played under the supervision of Richard Martin. Three new members were welcomed.

LANGFORD-COLWOOD

Members of the Langford-Colwood Branch of the A.Y.P.A. met recently in the Legion Hall, Langford, with the president, Jim Massie, presiding. Bob Little was elected transportation and programme convener in place of John Heggie, who is joining the air force. Phyllis Little was appointed refreshment convener. It was announced that two more members are joining the air force, Bruce Milburn, past president, and Colin Smith. The members were invited by Rev. G. H. Greenhalgh to attend the services last Sunday at Colwood, when the president and past president read the lessons, it being Youth Sunday. New officers were installed. The members paid tribute to the memory of one of their number, Flight Sergeant Claude H. Hincks, recently reported killed in action.

INDIANS FIND BODY OF SIDNEY RESIDENT

The badly decomposed body of John J. Norton, Sidney, was found on the beach at Valdez Island by a party of Indian hunters yesterday, it was reported by Constable Mackay, of the Provincial Police last night.

The body was identified by Constable Mackay, who had known Mr. Norton for many years. He had lived in Sidney for nearly thirty years and leaves two sons, Evert, Port Alberni, and Manuel, Vancouver.

Provincial Police said there was no sign of foul play.

HUMPHREY BOGART IN NEW THRILLER

"Across the Pacific" Opens Today on Capitol Screen—Mary Astor Plays Leading Feminine Role

The stars of "The Maltese Falcon"—Sydney Greenstreet, Humphrey Bogart, and Mary Astor—are reunited in Warner Bros.' "Across the Pacific," which opens today at the Capitol Theatre.

The film has for its setting the Panama Canal. Bogart plays the role of an army captain, who, as far as everyone but a select few are concerned, is dishonorably discharged from his post. Actually he leaves to perform a secret mission in the Canal Zone.

While there he meets a gang of saboteurs and at great risk manages to upset their plans.

The action-packed screen play was written by ace scenarist Richard Macaulay from Robert Carson's Saturday Evening Post serial.

"FOOTLIGHT SERENADE" HELD OVER THREE DAYS

"Footlight Serenade" has been held over for three more days at the Dominion Theatre.

Betty Grable, John Payne and Victor Mature are starred in the rollicking musical, which boasts a sterling cast of favorites. James Gleason and Phil Silvers, who handle the comedy end of "Footlight Serenade," are fast emerging as one of the most amusing teams in Hollywood.

They were both featured in "My Gal Sal," and in "Footlight Serenade" they work in really close harmony. Gleason appears as a worried theatrical producer, while Silvers is at home in the role of his crony and star comedian, who is the cause of most of Jimmy's imagined blues.

YORK THEATRE "Escape," filmization of the stirring novel by Ethel Vance, will end tonight at the York Theatre. The picture stars Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor. Miss Shearer has one of the most powerful roles of her career as the Countess who becomes involved in the desperate attempt of a young American artist to free his mother from a concentration camp, while Taylor is cast as the American.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES Bud Abbott and Lou Costello's latest comedy, "Pardon My Sarong," is now showing at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres. Supporting Abbott and Costello in the South Sea Island picture are Virginia Bruce and Robert Paige who carry the romantic leads. This is the first time in Miss Bruce's screen career that she has appeared with slapstick comedians.

RIO THEATRE The late aircraft carrier Ark Royal, plays the leading role in "Ships With Wings," which will end tonight at the Rio Theatre. The great ship participates in some of the most vividly exciting action imaginable on the screen. One exciting scene deals with a stirring naval and air engagement off Greece, after a dive bomber has attacked and rendered the landing deck of the carrier so hazardous that plane after plane is wrecked in landing or taking off.

ATLAS THEATRE "Juke Girl," one of the season's strongest films, will end tonight at the Atlas Theatre. In the starring roles are alluring Ann Sheridan as the hostess in a "juke joint" and dashing Ronald Reagan. The supporting roles are made up of such Hollywood favorites as Richard Whorf, George Tobias, Gene Lockhart and Alan Hale.

CADET THEATRE Charles Laughton has one of the most colorful roles of his career in "The Tuttles of Tahiti," which will end tonight at the Cadet Theatre. An island romance, the hilarious financial troubles of picturesque Jonas Tuttle, head of the Tuttle clan and an exciting storm at sea are all interwoven in this out-of-the-ordinary piece of film fare.

Honor Brides-Elect

In honor of Miss Joyce Holmes, whose wedding to Mr. Gordon Parsons will take place at St. George's Church, Ganges, on October 15, a surprise party and miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Jack Abbott, Mrs. Alan Cartwright, Mrs. W. L. Rogers and Mrs. Laurie Mouat last Friday evening at the home of Archdeacon and Mrs. G. H. Holmes, the Vicarage, Salt Spring Island.

Returning from a visit, the bride-to-be found her home in darkness, the surprise followed when lights disclosed the attractive setting for the shower, arranged in her absence.

Rooms were adorned with multi-colored flowers and asparagus fern; in the dining-room the table was centred with a large illuminated doll in bridal costume and holding a shower bouquet of tiny real rosebuds and fern, the long flowing veil concealing the assortment of lovely gifts. White and pink streamers decorated the table and fell from the ceiling lights in festoons to the corners of the lace-covered table, around which pink dahlias formed an attractive edging.

Miss Holmes was presented with a corsage bouquet of small red and white dahlias. Mrs. Holmes also received one of pink and mauve asters and smilax. Prior to unwrapping the gifts several flashlight photos were taken. Later in the evening there was community singing with Mrs. W. M. Palmer at the piano, and a vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Laurie Mouat; recitations in Lancashire dialect were given by Miss Jocelyn Sharpe, after which refreshments were served by the four hostesses.

Among those present were Mrs. S. P. Beech, Mrs. V. C. Best, Mrs. S. Donkersley, Archdeacon and Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. S. W. Hoole, Mrs. Mack Mouat, Mrs. E. Parsons, Mrs. F. C. Turner, Mrs. Stanley Wagg, Misses Netta Carr, Norah Turner and Norma Wagg.

In honor of Miss Mary Loudoun, whose marriage to P.O. George McTaggart, R.C.A.F., of Vancouver, will take place this week, Miss Jean Adams entertained at the home of her parents, 1210 Beach Drive, at a miscellaneous shower on Thursday evening. On arrival the bride-to-be and her mother were presented with corsages of pink and white carnations. The many beautiful gifts were contained in a large hat box decorated in pink and blue. During the evening contests were enjoyed, the prize winners being Miss Margaret Loudoun and Miss Helen Robinson. The invited guests included Mrs. J. Loudoun, Mrs. Ken Simpson and the Misses Ruth Morgan, Marjorie Pready, Myrtle Cook, Eleanor Brooke, Helen Robinson, Jean Baily, Helen McLellan, Margaret Loudoun, Frances Kerry, Iona McDiarmid and Grace Adams.

P. T. A. Activities

LANGFORD P.-T.A.

The monthly meeting of the Langford Association was held recently in the school with Mrs. A. F. Bayles in the chair. Mrs. E. M. Oakley read an interesting article dealing with "Better Parenthood Week." The following committees were appointed: Social, Mrs. V. Franklin, Mrs. G. Lamb, Mrs. T. Guiney, Mrs. A. O. Hansen; programme, Mrs. P. N. Welch, Mrs. Oakley, and the school teachers. It was announced by Mrs. L. Carlson, membership convener, that there are seventy-three members. After considerable discussion on the advisability of sponsoring Girl Guides, Boy Scouts groups and other activities for the boys and girls, Mrs. K. C. Hansen was elected convener to investigate the possibilities. The school principal announced that the symposium on "A Well-Educated Child" will be given on the Parent-Teacher period over CJVI on November 30. After the business session a social time was spent, the amusing contests arranged by the teachers being greatly enjoyed and prizes awarded to Mrs. E. LeQuesne and Mr. L. Carlson.

Submarines Active Off Western Coast

Two United States Oil Tankers Torpedoed and Sunk by Enemy Underwater Raiders Close to American Shore in Recent Weeks

A U.S. PACIFIC COAST PORT, Oct. 13 (CP).—Enemy submarines operating off the Pacific Coast have sunk two American tankers with a total death toll of seven seamen. Six perished in the sinking of a tanker announced by the United States Navy last Saturday, thirty-eight survivors being picked up by a lumber schooner which sailed into the danger zone and braved the enemy raider by sweeping the water with its searchlights.

One died in the loss of the second tanker, forty-eight survivors of which landed here October 6. In the first sinking four of the victims were trapped in their compartment by fire which swept the vessel and the others while at their stations in the blaze. The solitary victim in the second sinking lost his life when he leaped overboard.

One crew member of the second tanker, Boatswain Nathan A. Astashkin of Sitka, Alaska, has a low opinion of Japanese marksmanship. He said:

"Those little, yellow, Japanese sons-of-somebodies are bum shooters."

Bo'sn Astashkin and forty-seven other survivors of a medium-sized United States coastal tanker were brought here today by a foreign vessel flying a neutral flag. It picked them up two hours after their craft was torpedoed and set afire off the Oregon Coast the morning of October 4, and later was lost. This torpedoing was separate from the one the navy announced October 10 in which six men were killed.

QUALIFIED JUDGE

Sitting in a naval officers' mess, surrounded by shipmates—bearded oldsters and beardless boys—the Alaskan native explained why he considers himself a qualified judge of submarine marksmanship, German or Jap.

"It was my third torpedoing," he said. "Both the others were in the North Atlantic, aboard ships of Panamanian registry."

Astashkin and other members of the tanker crew paid tribute to "the guts of that navy gun crew; kids, most of them, that stood by their gun all, with the flames leaping maybe a hundred feet from the forepeak fuel oil bunker, just for a chance to take shot at the sub.

"But the submarine never surfaced, so far as we could see."

Within fifteen minutes the tanker was abandoned, after sending a wireless distress call. First Officer Pettersson was the last man aboard. He was without a lifebelt, so he, singlehandedly, lowered one of the two remaining boats, and got away unscathed.

Among the survivors here today was Seaman Fred Martin, twenty, Los Angeles, who grinned wryly that he'd been "Three days at sea and three days seasick—and torpedoed on the fourth."

Few of the crew got away fully clad and all were mighty glad when the neutral vessel, answering their wireless [illegible], hove into view and picked them up.

An epic of the United States Navy, the story of a five-day, heartbreaking fight to bring a torpedoed tanker into port, was also told here today.

The officers and eleven enlisted men made the fight, whistling and singing, knowing well that a chance spark could ignite the fumes of high octane gasoline that enveloped the hulk. The fight went on for five days. On the sixth, as the crew watched from the deck of an escort vessel, the fumes did ignite and the hulk went to the bottom in flames.

Lt.-Cmdr. W. R. Brust, who commanded the crew, told the story after bringing the crew, some of whom had never been on the water before, back to its base.

"They walked into the face of death, whistling and singing—what a crew!" Commander Brust said.

The struggle began in the misty dawn, nearly twenty-four hours after a torpedo tore away the tanker's bow, fifty miles off this port. Commander Brust transferred the salvage crew to the hulk from a fifty-four-foot fishing boat.

The tanker crew abandoned ship after the torpedoing, and was picked up by a passing vessel. The hulk, reeking with the gasoline fumes, was barely awash, bow down and stern high. A United States Coast Guard cutter got a line aboard and the fight to bring the ship in was started.

WIND WHIPPED UP

After the first night out, the wind whipped up, adding to the discomfort of the crew and to the likelihood that the vessel would founder before it reached port. The bow was steadily going deeper, indicating that a bulkhead had been sprung by the torpedo blast and that water was being shipped.

Wind and sea, kicking up all week, reached near-gale force on the third day of the fight, and the tow line parted. It was gotten aboard again, after a struggle with the mountainous waves, and the tow proceeded.

As the fifty day dawned, the wind increased in intensity and so much water had been shipped that the tanker's stern pointed skyward at a forty-five-degree angle. More than half of the ship's length was under water.

Just before nightfall of the fifth day, Brust ordered the salvage crew to abandon ship. Rough seas held the escorting ships at a distance and some of the youngsters were forced to leap into the icy waters. The transfer was effected without loss or injury.

Commander Brust stood watch all the fifth night. As dawn was breaking on the sixth day, flames broke out on the stricken vessel. Something had ignited the gasoline.

Twenty-five minutes later, as the crew watched, the tanker slowly upended, reached the 12 o'clock position, swung back again and plunged to the bottom.

Without sleep for days, Commander Brust and his crew returned to their base at this port. The only loss: Brust broke his glasses.

JILTED ANYWAY

"Were you disappointed in love, old man?"

"Yes, twice. The first jilted me and the second didn't."

Sunken Tanker Survivors

TWO men were killed and four are missing as the result of the torpedoing of an armed merchant tanker off the West Coast recently. It was the first sinking off the Pacific Coast since June 7. The third mate was killed and the ship lost its chief engineer as the crew abandoned the ship. Four members of the navy gun crew are also missing and two other bluejackets were injured. Survivors numbered thirty-eight. They were picked up by a lumber schooner. The ship was a flaming mass of burning oil a moment after the torpedo struck. In the upper picture are four members of the navy gun crew. Lower picture is that of Captain Olaf Brieland, master of the tanker.

GAVE LIFE TO SAVE COMRADES

Heroism of Canadian Pilot Extolled by Members of Bomber's Crew

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 13 (CP).—An unidentified Canadian pilot of a burning R.C.A.F. Halifax bomber was reported by air force headquarters to have given his life in a courageous attempt to save his crew by keeping the wobbling aircraft on a steady course while they jumped to safety.

The skipper managed to hold the aircraft steady only long enough for four of the crew of seven to bail out before the port wing and engines were blown off by an explosion and the machine crashed in flames.

Three of the crew, all Canadians, are safe. The fourth, a Canadian wireless operator, who was the second one to leave the aircraft, is missing.

The story of the disaster and the almost superhuman effort of the pilot to save his crew was related by the survivors, Pilot Officer Ed Mason, of Rockglen, Sask.; the navigator; Sgt. Jim Alexander, of Nanaimo, B.C., the bomb-aimer, and Sgt. Joe Kaucharik, of Fort William, Ont., the flight engineer.

The Canadians were returning from a raid when the port engine caught fire. Two minutes later, after the pilot had tried in vain to "feather" the propeller and extinguish the flames, there was an explosion and the port wing and engines were blown off. The blazing wreckage plummeted earthwards.

"It was all over in about two minutes," the twenty-two-year-old Kaucharik said. "The pilot ordered us to bale out, while he struggled hard to keep us straight and level. When I last saw him he was working like a madman to keep her under control."

Mason jumped first, followed by the wireless operator, Alexander, and Kaucharik. Mason fell into the North Sea two miles from the English coast. Kaucharik swam ashore in one and a half hours despite a stiff arm and shoulder and Alexander fell into a field where he lay for two hours with a badly hurt knee.

CO-OPERATION IN ALEUTIANS

Canadians Appreciate Privilege of Fighting Side by Side With Americans

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ALASKA, Oct. 13 (CP).—At fog-bound outposts of storied Alaska and reaching into the Aleutian Islands, Canada's armed forces stand shoulder to shoulder with their comrades from the United States, alert and ready for action should an enemy thrust be directed against America's Pacific Northwest. By air, water and over land I have just completed an extended tour of the growing chain of western bases.

With a scenic wonderland as background and in the very shadows of towering, snowcapped mountains, the Canadians are tackling a prodigious job manning these isolated outposts and erecting defences through treacherous muskeg, rock and dense forest. So far variable weather and problems of transportation have been handicaps to speedy consolidation. But like the men of the First Canadian Division on their arrival in England nearly three years ago, the Alaska contingent has fought boldly against adversity with a combination of hard work, resourcefulness and improvisation.

For obvious reasons neither the strength of Canada's Alaska force nor its disposition can be disclosed. But this much can be revealed—practically every section of the far-flung Dominion is represented.

Although far removed from settlement, the men have come to accept their isolation with sardonic cheerfulness. They like the informalities of the front line where spit and polish and parades go by the boards, but already they are becoming impatient for action. They are hoping for an early opportunity of meeting the foe face to face—for a chance to finish the job. Their chief dread is to be left in a sector of inaction, amid fogs that penetrate the very marrow, while "the balloon goes up" in Europe.

I found the troops comfortably housed, some in wooden huts, others in specially-fitted United States Army tents. They enjoy all the facilities of a modern camp—electric lights, hot and cold water, showers, and either individual cots or double-decker bunks. Some had sheets and pillow slips.

To meet the rigors of an Alaska Winter, the men have been issued with extra-warm clothing. Their food, based on United States scale of rations, is of the highest standard. Delicacies can be purchased in canteens at reasonable prices, for the Canadians are paid in United States currency. And for entertainment they get first-run movies or an occasional revue.

"SWELL FELLOWS"

Throughout the Canadian camps their American comrades-in-arms are regarded as "swell fellows." The urgency of the job on hand has afforded little time for relaxation, but whenever the boys get a chance they flock together in the canteens, swapping stories or singing around an off-tune piano. I have heard them harmonizing "The Star Spangled Banner" with just as much fervor as "Rule Britannia" or "There'll Always Be an England."

The co-operation of the Americans during the early days last Spring when the Canadians in their new environment were confronted by many difficulties won praise from every quarter. This is how L.A.C. Norman L. Oreck, of Vancouver, expressed it:

"Time after time we found ourselves in the position of the poor neighbor who rushes across the way to borrow a cup of sugar. Time after time we were offered the whole bin. We used their canteens, sat in their movie, rode in their trucks, filled their barracks, used their lumber and materials, drank their beer. No door was closed and each had a genuine 'Welcome' mat before it. Soldiers and civilians vied with each other to accommodate us."

At the moment these fighting men from both countries are living with their jobs—the gunners with their guns, air crews with their planes and the infantry at positions of readiness. They wish for nothing but a chance to march side by side against the enemy and the sooner the order comes the better they will like it.

BRITISH AIRMEN KILLED

CALGARY, Oct. 13 (CP).—A mid-air collision between two Harvard trainers cost the lives of three British airmen stationed at Calgary, as the craft crashed in a farmer's field near Airdrie yesterday.

Announcing the accident, officials of No. 37 S.F.T.S., R.A.F., said the two aircraft were on separate training flights, one with a pilot cadet at the controls, and the other carrying a cadet and a flying instructor. Their names were withheld until their next of kin in the United Kingdom have been notified.

Copper Wire goes to War

Vast quantities of copper wire are needed for the war effort of the United Nations. The wire goes into aeroplanes, ships, tanks, and innumerable other things. Copper is also required for many other purposes than wire. There is not enough copper to go around, and that is why the Government severely restricts the use of wire in the telephone business.

Manufacturers that might have made the switchboards and automatic equipment needed to meet the telephone demands in our territory are not permitted to do so because the materials, personnel and machines are needed to fill war orders. So we must get along largely with what we have.

These are reasons why many people who want telephone service are now unable to get it.

Glancing Over Sport

By JOE DELAUNTY

WESTMINSTER TONIGHT

The Salmonbellies came back with plenty of scoring punch on Monday evening to stay in the running for the Mann Cup and the Canadian [illegible] championship, [illegible] the Mimico-Brampton Combine by a six-goal margin. New Westminster lost the first two games after those battles, but you can't count them out of the picture now. Coach Jackson put their best attacking efforts to win the third fixture. If the British Columbians can come through tonight the odds are in their favor, for they have the fight and spirit to travel all the way to Toronto and return to the Coast with the championship mug. According to the radio on Monday, the Western lads were cutting wide gaps in the Easterners' defence, especially in the last quarter when goals really counted. Both teams will be handicapped for the fourth engagement as several of their men are on the injured list. The Salmonbellies were chopped up by that Lachine club, one which didn't know anything about the boxla sport except lay on the wood. Lachine was beaten from the first whistle, but still at the same time those French Canadians decided to take it out on the Salmonbellies by mowing them down, seeing that they couldn't win a decision. And they call that sportsmanship in that neck of the woods. All I can say is that the Canadian Lacrosse Association should have stepped in and done something about the slaughter. If the referees couldn't pay lacrosse any better than they displayed against the Salmonbellies the referees should have called them out of the semi-finals after the first game. I am going out on the limb and pick the New Westminster boys to tie up the series tonight, so don't say I didn't tell you so.

ODDS AND ENDS

All the field managers in the country are starting to lay claim to Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion, now that the Brown Bomber has announced his retirement from the ring. Sergeant Joe says he wants to fight one one way from now on, and that's against Hitler and his kickers. Bob Pastore has come out in the open and states that the crown should go to the lad who jumped aboard his horse and took it down for twelve rounds to win the title with the Detroiter once, but the next time out it was a vastly different story for the Bronx slugger slowed Mr. Pastor down quickly as possible.

Billy Conn is different. He says that he is still ruler of the roost and would like to meet him once more to settle the dispute once and for all. However, if he really means what he says Joe has enjoyed one of the finest boxing careers of them all. His greatest humiliation was the knockout he received at the hands of Maxie Schmeling. But a year later the German puncher came back with revenge and stopped the German after one minute and thirty-five seconds, just to show the fighting public that he had what it takes to make world champions. Unless it was Jack Dempsey, no boxer in history supplied more copy for the sport scribes than the Bomber. Dempsey's memorable battles with Luis Firpo and Gene Tunney might have stirred up more excitement among the clientele than did the Louis contests, for most writers picked out the Firpo brawl as tops for sheer drama. But through their respective careers, the Manassa Mauler's record didn't excel the Bomber's either in public interest or performance . . . Certainly most of the "pep" went out of the boxing game when the former cotton picker from the Deep South decided to call it a career. No man who made the sordid science a profession ever retired with more public good will . . . But ladies and gentlemen, don't be a bit surprised if the colored champion sneaks out from under the covers and has one more fight before he decides to call it a day.

BASEBALL RUMORS

Emil Sick, who usually doesn't pay any attention to baseball rumors, was plenty hot under his presidential collar the other afternoon when he asked rumors that Seattle would be frozen out of the Pacific Coast League next year, along with Portland, to make the loop a six-club All-California alliance, and that Seattle would place a team in a new Northwestern League. It's the Pacific Coast League for Seattle in 1943 and baseball rules protect the franchise of every club owner if a league operates. If the P.C.L. should suspend, then it's a different picture. But there can be no shifting of franchises without the unanimous consent of all league directors. There are certain league and national association rules which must be complied with to retain a franchise, such as providing a park, fielding a team and the like; but otherwise the operation of each club is left to each club. Baseball is like no other business venture in its makeup, partially civil in nature and yet conducted as a private enterprise. And it takes plenty of enterprise to provide a playing field with suitable stands, transportation expenses, salaries, etc. It pays off well in its good years, but can splash with plenty of red ink in its poor ones. And league and association rules are the only protection those responsible for the game's operation have for their investment. Without them baseball would wind up in chaos.

Some day we intend to give it to the Hun—right in the belly.—General Andrew McNaughton.

Promoter Jacobs Is Carrying Hopes

Matchmaker Figures That Heavyweight Boxing Champion Will Defend Crown Before He Decides to Hang Up Gloves—Louis Determined That He Is Through With Ring

By OLIVE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs professed today to have not a doubt in the world that Sergeant Joe Louis would defend his heavyweight title again "some time," no matter how the sergeant might feel about it at the moment.

"They all come back," the old ticket tycoon philosophized as he looked over the latest dispatches from the West, in which Joe continued to say yes or no in a somewhat confused disagreement with himself.

"Joe says here he might be too old to fight when the war is over. Mike said adjusting his specs. 'He never get too old to fight for that kind of dough.

"Joe's only twenty-eight now. What if the war lasts say five years. He would still be only thirty-three when he get out. Jim Braddock won the title when he was thirty-five didn't he? And those colored fighters usually are better when they're past thirty. Look at Jack Johnson. Nobody knows how old he was when he lost his title to Willard.

"One thing whenever he comes out of the army, he will be able to knock a mans head off when he hits him. That's still pay off on that after the war."

Mike was asked if the champ told him flatly over the telephone that he did not mean to retire from the ring at this time to relinquish his title formally.

"I don't remember what he said," Mike replied. "I wanted to know, because whenever he retires I can start an elimination tournament for the heavyweight title."

Mike's opinion is that Louis simply is too wrapped up in his army career at the moment to give much thought to fighting in the ring again—particularly since his bout with Bill Conn was called off. He feels it is a phase that would wear off quickly once the war is won.

JOE LOUIS TALKS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sergt. Joe Louis flew into town today from Fort Riley, Kansas, on a two weeks' furlough and emphasized

The only fightin' I'm thinkin about right now is in the army.

If and when I'm mustered out then maybe I'll think about boxin. There's be plenty of time then.

He admitted he'd continue boxing because "I'm only twenty-eight. I'm not gettin old."

Louis told The Associated Press in Omaha Sunday his fighting days are over.

Early today before boarding the Los Angeles-bound plane at Kansas City, he explained he meant that he probably never would have another chance.

You don't tell what kind of shape I'll be in when this war is over," he added. "Layoffs from training sure don't help none."

Two Matches Set For Saturday in District League

TWO important soccer games will be played in the First Division of the Victoria and District Football League this coming Saturday. Royal Air Force will take on the Victoria Machinery Depot at the Athletic Park with Bob McKenzie handling the whistle. Out at Admirals Road the Navy will be taking on the Army, and Dave McMillan will be in charge. Both matches will start at 2.30. On Thanksgiving Day the Flyers from Patricia Bay blanked the Sailors by a 4-0 score at the Cadorna Avenue enclosure before a good turnout of holiday fans. The R.A.F. led at the interval by a single goal and then rammed three more home in the last forty-five minutes. Hall scored the first two goals for the Flyers and then he completed the hat trick with his third straight tally in the final period. Potter wound up the scoring late in the match to give the air force eleven a clean-cut decision.

EXPLANATION OF SUNDAY'S CARTOON

The Strangest Capture on Record—Alex McConnel, of Dieu Riviere, Ontario, a half-breed Indian, ran down a three-year-old moose after chasing it for about twenty-five miles. He then fenced the animal in a circle of about forty feet diameter, caged him, loaded the cage on a wagon, hitched up a team of horses and drove seven miles to the nearest railroad station. At the station the cage was loaded in a box car and shipped to Buffalo.

Trio of Runners in Blanket Finish

Here is pictured a blanket finish involving three horses, as a trio of thoroughbreds smack across the finish line at Aqueduct track, New York, nose and nose. The judges looked at the photos, however, and placed the rail runner Troon (6) as the winner, with Bramble Bug (2) in second place, and Llano Blanco (7) in the show spot. Bramble Bug was favorite, and Troon paid the nice price of $24.00 for a two-dollar bet. Time for the six furlongs was 1.15.

Nine Maple Leafs Missing This Year

Stanley Cup Champions Drained of Strength as They Prepare for Next Hockey Campaign—Eight in the Armed Forces—Drillon With Canadiens—Replacements Coming Up

By JACK SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP)—Nine players who played on last year's Stanley Cup champions, and seven of Toronto Maple Leafs, held their annual pre-season luncheon here today before leaving for their St. Catharines, Ont., training camp.

The hockey champions were accompanied to their training quarters by Coach Bun Cook and seven members of the Providence Reds of the American Hockey League and a number of amateurs who hope to make the professional grade.

At the luncheon Manager Frank Selke told the players that since the highest Federal authorities considered that hockey was essential for national morale, the players should take their jobs seriously.

In addition to Coach Happy Day and Captain Syl Apps, veterans from last season's squad who went to camp were Bob Davidson, Hank Goldup, Lorne Carr, Reg Hamilton, Gaye Stewart, Bill Taylor, Bucko McDonald, Turk Broda and Dave Schriner.

Schriner arrived in Toronto with two Calgary amateurs, George Boothman and Ken Brangwith, who will be given tryouts with the Leafs. The veteran left winger announced that he was reporting for pre-season practice seven pounds lighter than last season. A summer of hard work had left him in fine condition.

PLAYERS MISSING

Missing were the following members of the team who now are in the armed forces:

Wally Stanowski, Bingo Kampman, Ernie Dickens, Pete Langelle, Don Metz, Nick Metz, Johnny McCreedy and Bob Goldham.

Also missing was Gordon Drillon, high-scoring right winger, who recently was sold to Montreal Canadiens.

Replacements provided by the loss of Mr. Hi, veteran right winger, acquired from the disbanded Brooklyn Americans. It was thought Reg. Hill would team with Apps and Davidson across the middle. It has been suggested that a possible starting line would consist of Apps, Davidson and Goldup at left handers.

Amateurs who went to camp included Bud Poile with Pete Arthur in the Allan Cup finals last Spring and Doug Baldwin rated the best junior defenceman in Winnipeg last year.

ATHLETES AT WAR

By MIKE GRIFFITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP)—Pete Morin, a graduate of the Canadian forces, is now in the ranks of the National Hockey League, due to join the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Rumor here had it that Dick Irvin, coach of the Montreal Canadiens, had an offer of a lieutenant's post with the R.C.A.F. signals division, public relations section. A report had it that the Regina pigeon fancier received the offer after he proposed to the Department of National Defence that 100 of his best birds be selected for use as R.C.A.F. messengers.

Dick, however, at present is more interested in training first place homing instincts in the Canadiens hockey club.

Conn Stafford Smythe, son of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey impresario, is a probationary sub-lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

Staff, as he was known to University of Toronto hockey teammates, joined the navy as an ordinary seaman recently. After his training at HMCS Prevost he will be given a commission.

Wally Halder, another University of Toronto hockey star, is in the navy also. Wally at present is posted to the RCNVR at HMCS York in Toronto, for preliminary training.

He first broke into organized hockey with Ed Wiley's Young Rangers in the Junior Ontario Hockey Association in 1938. The next year Halder played for Varsity Juniors and followed that up with two successful seasons in the Toronto Hockey League playing for Tip Tops when intercollegiate hockey was discontinued due to wartime university regulations.

Erik Henriksen, former Victoria Cougar, Detroit and Pittsburgh professional hockey player, is a flight lieutenant in the R.C.A.F.

Another Montreal boxer has joined the R.C.A.F. following the steps of Dave Castilloux and Harry Hurst.

This time it's Harry Gerrard, one-time contender for the Canadian bantamweight title. Gerrard turned professional in 1941 and now may become a physical instructor in the air force.

Katsuma Marioka, formerly well-known as a bantamweight boxer in Canadian fight circles, is in the Canadian Army now.

Marioka is of Japanese descent, but was born in Vancouver. Recently he wrote to a Montreal newspaper from Cornwall, where he is stationed, and said that if it was planned to put on any patriotic boxing events there he would be willing to box for nothing.

NORTH SHORE XI SCORES VICTORY

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13 (CP)—North Shore United came from behind today to score twice and beat St. Saviours in a Coast Soccer League game at Athletic Park before a crowd of 1,500 persons. Coupled with their victory over St. Andrews on Saturday, it gave the Reds a five-point margin at the head of the standings.

Taking the game all through, Saviours were quick to take the lead. Their defence was woefully weak and Arne Bunstead, their goalie, had to pick them through by spectacular goalkeeping on two or three occasions. He also saved a penalty kick from Fred Whittaker in the first ten minutes of play.

SQUASH RACQUETS

Match played between the R.A.F. and Yarrows Shipyards on Sunday was won by Yarrows, five matches to three. It was played at the Sussex squash court.

Group Commander Pope beat A. Saunderson, 21-19, 21-8.

Group Commander Pope beaten by Van Horn, 15-21, 16-21.

Lieut. Paxton beaten by A. Saunderson, 16-21, 15-21.

Lieut. Paxton beat D. Ewing, 21-15, 21-6.

Capt. Trainer beaten by G. C. Grant, 21-10, 12-21, 16-21.

Capt. Trainer beaten by Van Horn, 18-21, 8-21.

Pilot Officer Wiggs beaten by D. Ewing, 21-15, 16-21, 20-21.

GRAPHIC GOLF

By BERT BALL

ESCAPING FROM WATER

One doesn't hear nearly so much about escaping from a water lie as from a sandy lie in a bunker, yet the two techniques are quite similar. Except in certain positions the golfer is prone to drop a ball behind the water hazard and take his stroke penalty. On cause water through the fairway, of course, one may lift the ball without penalty, but when the lie means another stroke it might pay the golfer to play it out.

Naturally much depends on the lie of the ball. If it is, say, two or three inches below the surface there is a reasonably good chance of blasting out. In this shot as in the expulsion, the clubhead should hit behind the ball, cutting through the water and blasting it up and out as the above picture illustrates. A ball covered by more water than that stipulated above increases the difficulty of the shot. The water is quite likely to deflect the arc of the clubhead and slow it up so that the stroke is wasted. The shot requires decisive hitting and the player who attempts it must not be afraid of getting wet.

Salmonbellies to Face Easterners

Western Representatives Have Good Chance to Even Lacrosse Series by Taking Tonight's Fourth Game—Won on Monday, 14-8—Show Fine Form in Winning Game

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP)—Pure water or no pure water, Coach Jack Wood is convinced his New Westminster Salmonbellies have finally struck their stride in their best-of-five Dominion championship lacrosse series with Mimico-Brampton Combines.

Well, even it up tomorrow, he said tonight as Salmonbellies rested in preparation for the fourth game of the series at Maple Leaf Gardens. "There's nothing wrong with Salmonbellies a few goals won't cure."

The last remark was a joking reference to the forty-gallon keg of the purest water that can be obtained anywhere, which was supposed to have been shipped to Toronto from New Westminster last Friday. The mysterious elixir was needed, said Mayor Fred J. Hume of New Westminster, because the water around Toronto has been playing havoc with our team, with the result that the players are getting sick."

Wood, however, said he has heard nothing "further of the shipment since he received a wire from Mayor Hume saying he is trying his interior to some tap water."

In the first two games of the Mann Cup series, Salmonbellies actually looked as if they needed a drink as they lost 10-5 and 15-9. But last night before 3,286 fans they came back to win 14-8 in a surprising turn-around.

MISSING GAME

Three Salmonbellies, Doug Ross, Art Matthewson and Alex Askew, will miss tomorrow's game and probably will be unable to play in a fifth game if necessary Friday. Ross is in hospital with a split kidney. Matthewson is out with a dislocated shoulder and Askew has a heavy chest cold.

Combines will be minus Arch Dixon and Jack Williams, who are replacing Major Conn Smythe's 60th Battery. Dixon scored four goals last night and Williams had three in the second game of the series. Coach Chuck Davidson will replace them with Bill Isaacs and Omons Smith.

His important line-up shift, however, will see Bert Large substituting for Pete Axford in the Mimico-Brampton net. Large was Salmonbellies' nemesis in the first two games of the series, after Axford looked less effective in net.

Stage was set for the clash as another great Yankee win, he would also bring in good crowd. The setting was there on the newspaper for anyone to see.

The team, which went into the series with odds favored at two to one or better, was not even as good a team as the Yank of last Fall. Its best outfield player, Marty Rios, was off of form. And Roy Cullen, the Yankee, he played well, but not as well as in the ball player the Tommy Heinrich was.

Perhaps the most important factor was that Bill Dickey, had the kind of catching a clear and definitely stamped the club in 1942. Bill suffered from a [illegible] fever throughout the series, and but apart from that he [illegible] the champions. He was overhauled by two young men, Walker Cooper of St. Louis and Mickey Owen of Brooklyn, mostly and passed.

That's as good a comparison as any of the present situation in big league baseball. For I think Cooper and Owen now stand in the same relation to Dickey as their ball clubs do to the Yankees. I have an idea that the Dodgers too might have beaten the Yanks this year, even with pitching less effective than the Cardy pitchers.

But the Cardinals won the right to do the job, and they did it brilliantly and thoroughly.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

Better Than Yanks

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Cardinals and Yankees played what may have been the last World Series for some time, and they gave a good one. It wouldn't have been so good if the Yankees had won by the same margin for games to one. For lack of the appeal and excitement of this particular classic came from the fact that a team of real and lasting importance was meeting a team of champions. But all the games were well and hotly played, just the same, and those who saw them or heard them on radio, including soldiers and sailors abroad, will probably remember them for a long time, whatever the next few years may bring to us.

It was a good series partly because the Yankees, though, this time, managed to find themselves into a real decent state of mind and lacked the old keenness from start to finish. Were a team enough ball club intrinsically to make a contest of every game, they just go on natural abilities, devoid of the fire and hitting zeal that marked the Cardinals.

SPARK MISSING

The Yank, resulted from the start that something of the aggressive aggressive was missing. They did their best at first to take it to work, cause yes into a synthetic lather. They raged and heeled and cursed in the first three games, trying that magic an imitation of Dizzy and Dodger tactics would light the spark and set them on fire. They squawked on decisions that were as obvious as the nose on Joe Dimaggio's face. Mr. Joe McCarthy almost quibbled himself into apoplexy. It was silly to watch and a poor imitation, and it didn't work. So in the last two games the Yanks gave it up, held their peace, and played the best ball they could under the circumstances. It wasn't good enough, not good enough to beat a club that had genuine ability apart from its inspirational urge.

The Cardinals were a sound combination of good pitching, good defense and good [illegible] enough to start the engine in motion. Enos Slaughter was the most consistent power hitter on the club, and he was no match for Lonnie Kenner or DiMaggio or even Joe Gordon at the table over a season or a play. The Cards had half a dozen hitters who could hit the ball on a line when it was absolutely necessary. And when they couldn't find the ball at all to hit it square they could always bunt the enemy off balance.

DODGERS OUT-LUCKED

There were signs last Autumn that the spell of the Yankees over the National League might be coming to an end. They lost only one game to Brooklyn in the 1941 series, but the way it was played they might easily have lost three or even four. The Dodgers were soundly out-lucked—and most of the world outside of Brooklyn, including perhaps the Yanks themselves, refused to recognize that fact. The Cardinals were [illegible] the Yankees, and if [illegible] the Yankees [illegible] the Yankees [illegible] the Yankees

Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP) — Amateur hockey moguls have been stymied by uncertainty this Fall wondering what player talent the conscriptions has left them, what inroads the National League, with ranks depleted by enlistments, will make upon the amateurs, and what service teams will be available for the established amateur leagues.

Conditions will be surveyed and plans laid shortly however at meetings of executives of Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Branches of the association are most of the well-known leagues that operate although some places such as Vancouver and Edmonton are likely to be without organized hockey because the National Defence Department has taken over rinks.

Squib Lair, Lionel Conacher, RCAF sports director, outlined the situation somewhat in the West when announcement the army and air force will provide four teams in Alberta and another four in Saskatchewan. Decision of the Manitoba War Services Board to refuse nineteen-year-old players passports to enter United States apparently made certain the best juniors from there will not depart enough for [illegible] pastures and Manitoba's junior [illegible] with them again.

A junior league is reported probable also in Alberta, comprising Calgary Drumheller, Canmore and Red Deer. Moose Jaw Canucks are working up a good entry for the senior league [illegible].

In Northern Ontario the Porcupine Senior League is expected to operate again with four teams, Rouyn, Noranda, Dome, Hollinger and McIntyre and to enter an all-star team in the play-offs at the end of [illegible].

The Toronto group in the Ontario Association A series is likely to comprise Recreation, Grenadiers and army, navy and air force teams. Although the Montreal City and District League has looked for lack of entries the Quebec Senior League will operate but without their 1942 champions, Quebec Aces, who have lost their former backers.

In the Maritimes the Cape Breton Senior League may add three service teams to its longer-established ones, Sydney, Glace Bay and North Sydney.

Country Is in Enviable Position, Says Rev. G. Biddle In Luncheon Address

Canadians should be thankful that the great world upheaval which is bringing disorder and destruction to many countries is coming upon them in a sane and orderly fashion, Rev. George Biddle, rector of St. Johns Church, declared yesterday before members of the Kiwanis Club in the Empress Hotel.

More fortunate than most people, Canadians this Thanksgiving season should realize that comparatively they have much to be thankful for. In the midst of a changing world Canada's harvests are better than usual, Mr. Biddle pointed out. There are indications that national problems are being approached from a long-range point of view, and the people themselves, though they have become materialistic, have earned an enviable position in the aftermath of things a new lesson.

But most important of all, the speaker said, Canadians may be thankful that the heart of the British Empire is sound and its people maintain a [illegible] of [illegible].

Dealings Slower After Fast Pace On Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP).—Scattered stocks maintained their recovery stride in today's market, but many leaders were unable to make much progress.

Prices in most cases were highest in the first hour. Thereafter some profits were cashed here and there on the theory the list was due for a technical setback in the wake of its lengthy climb. Dealings, fast for a while, slackened later. Closing trends were a trifle mixed in most departments. There were a few wide gainers while losses were comparatively negligible.

The double holiday apparently had made no great dent in bullish sentiment as war prospects, on balance, were still bright, and hopes persisted that the forthcoming tax measure would retain its moderately lenient provisions for corporations.

Due partly to advances of 3¼ points in Du Pont on restricted transactions, and a gain of a point for American Telephone—the latter was up 2 in the morning—the Associated Press sixty-stock average emerged with net improvement of 1 of a point at 40.1, a new peak since November 6, 1941. Of 849 individual issues, 378 were up, 245 down and 226 unchanged. Transfers amounted to 857,200 shares against 1,054,470 in the previous full session.

Expected tax benefits aided some of the utilities, with North American a lively performer with a plus mark of ⅝. Others up in this group were Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N.J. and American Water Works.

Fifteen utilities 13.71, up .31. Sales, 857,000.

Ham and Eggs Being Canned

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 13.—The boys in the military service need not be without their accustomed ham and eggs, regardless of where their duties may take them, for H. J. Heinz Company and other food concerns are canning this typical American breakfast dish in the form of army rations. This canned product is one with which the housewife has never had an opportunity to become acquainted.

Long before the war began, Army Quartermaster Corps experts at the Chicago Quartermaster Depot Subsistence Research Laboratory were experimenting in the preparation of canned rations that would furnish the armed forces with balanced diets, regardless of where they might be. Flavor, as well as nutritive values, was considered, and one of the ambitions of the dietetic experts was to can an egg product that would be high in protein.

Since the outbreak of war, chefs in the Heinz experimental kitchens and the company's food scientists and technologists have worked diligently with representatives of the Quartermaster Corps to devise a formula for a ration of this kind. Other food companies engaged in similar efforts. Eventually, a product known as chopped ham and eggs was found satisfactory and within a short time cans will be rolling from the filling rigs of many commercial kitchens.

Ham and eggs were never canned before. The canning of this popular dish is another example of the ability of the Army Quartermaster Corps and the food industry to meet the requirements of global warfare. Veterans of first Great War recall the hard-tack, bully beef and stew of their days on the battlefield, but the army, with the co-operation of the food industry, is giving the new warriors a more appetizing, more nutritive and a more varied diet than was available a quarter of a century ago.

It has become known that the Heinz Company is producing large quantities of this product, as well as other food rations.

MADE IN CANADA

Mosquito Light Bomber Will Be Built in Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 13 (CP).—Announcement in London by Munitions Minister Howe that Canada soon will be in production of Mosquito bombers in the first official statement that this popular new light bomber is to be made in Canada.

The Mosquito is still on the secret list but it is known from recent raids on Oslo, in which Mosquitos were used, that the twin-motored craft has a range of some 1,200 miles. As a light machine it may also be used for fighting purposes, it is understood.

Tests of the first Canadian Mosquito are understood to have taken place within the past few days but it is not known to what extent this machine was made in Canada and to what extent it was assembled from parts made in other plants.

WHAT'S DOING ON THE LOCAL RETAIL PRODUCE MARKET

A new increase in egg prices has now brought that of Grade "A" large to within half-a-cent of the wholesale ceiling, according to official reports. The prices on other sizes of eggs still have a few more cents to rise.

Although a car of grapefruit arrived on the row yesterday, wholesalers state they are high in price and no further supplies are expected for two weeks. Because new grapefruit are slow in coming, there may be a real scarcity in a week's time.

Arrivals on the row yesterday included oranges, Jonathan apples and the last shipment of peaches. A car of bananas is due this weekend. Cranberry sales were very high for Thanksgiving.

On vegetable row it is reported that hot-house cucumbers are not plentiful and prices are advancing.

SERGEANT WALLS FROM VICTORIA IS MISSING

Among flyers posted as missing in the R.C.A.F. list issued last night by headquarters, Ottawa, was the name of Sgt. Raymond Ben Walls, son of Mrs. B. Walls, 1616 Hampshire Road.

A native of Victoria, Sergeant Walls was born twenty-two years ago. He attended Willows and Oak Bay High Schools. Formerly a member of the R.C.A. (Coast Defence), he transferred to the Royal Canadian Air Force in January, 1941, and has been overseas for more than a year.

Since arriving in England, Sergeant Walls has taken part in a number of operational flights as a bomb-aimer aboard Lancaster bombers. He was first reported missing, according to advices received by his mother, in September last.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy and Cunningham Drug Stores or any druggist and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. (Adv.)

Death Rides Broomstick

"In the second month of the second century, every male who bears the name of McAvery shall die a HORRIBLE death. By the end of that month, there shall be no man living who bears the name and the blood of McAvery. This I promise."

Such was the strange curse cast on the clan of McAvery in 1741. Did it come true? THE SHADOW KNOWS! The Shadow is a mysterious character who aids the forces of law and order. He is, in reality, Lamont Cranston, wealthy young man-about-town who, with his friend, Margo Lane, solves many a baffling case.

W. & J. Wilson invite you to listen at 9:30 tonight for "Death Rides a Broomstick," another thrilling drama featuring THE SHADOW. Tune in to CJVI, "The Bright Spot on Your Dial," at 1480. ***

What Today Means

LIBRA

If October 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m.

There is no question but that we reap what we sow, and the conditions prevailing on October 14 probably will cause seeds of indiscretion to result in a bounteous harvest of retributive justice. If you are careless about safeguarding your own interests, do not expect others to go out of their way to protect them for you. News leaks on this date will be traceable to people who are not able to keep silent, so remember this if you realize that you have a tendency to talk too much. Labor shortages will be responsible for many businessmen and women having some bad headaches; so bear this in mind if you are the victim of slow or poor service, and refrain from complaining. Married and engaged couples, as well as prospective fiancees, must plan to practice economy and save their pennies if they are to have a reserve fund for for future emergencies, particularly those involving payment of taxes.

If you are a woman and October 14 is your birthday, rapid thinking may save you many embarrassing moments and help you out of a series of dilemmas. It is not always advisable to hide your emotions, especially if by doing so you create the impression that you are indifferent. Each discordant condition has a cause so when faced with one try to figure out what part you have played in its creation. As a buyer, professional shopper, demonstrator, designer, writer, instructress, manager, technician, dietitian, doctor, lawyer, scientific research worker, or in a managerial capacity, you should have ample reason to be proud of your accomplishments. If you constantly will bear in mind that it takes two to make a happy marriage, yours probably will prove to be one.

The child born on October 14 is quick to sense if he is a victim of an injustice and, although he maintains silence, he deeply resents such treatment, so parents and teachers must exercise care in handling this youngster. Because this child is high-spirited, harshness never should be used in correcting him.

If you are a man and October 14 is your natal day, being progressive and unassuming you ought to be popular with your business associates. Keen intuition and good judgment probably characterize your business transactions. As a political leader, lawyer, actor, doctor, author, musician, artist, engineer, builder, or in some martial occupation, you may become widely known and well established in your chosen career.

Coleman, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in his capacity as president of the Railway Association of Canada, has announced the appointment of J. A. Brass to succeed Mr. Riddell.

In writing to Mr. Riddell expressing appreciation of his long and valued service to the association, Mr. Coleman said, "In the name of the executive committee of the Railway Association of Canada and on my own behalf as president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, I wish to express appreciation of the broad and generous view you have always taken in your relations with the railway industry of Canada, and extend my congratulations on your distinguished service and my good wishes for your pleasant enjoyment of leisure in retirement."

Charles Percival Riddell was born at Stratford, Ont., in 1884, and commenced his lengthy career of railroad association in 1900 when he joined the Grand Trunk Railway as a clerk in the local freight office. Three years later he transferred to Portland, Me., where he worked in the company's transportation department.

In 1911 he served as stenographer in the office of the president of the Central Vermont Railway, and in January, 1913, became clerk in the office of the general superintendent of transportation. In March, 1914, he was appointed chief clerk of that department, and in November of the same year he was granted leave of absence to become general secretary of the Railway Association of Canada, the position he has now relinquished after twenty-five years of service.

Mr. Riddell's successor, James Alexander Brass, had served the Candaian Pacific Railway for thirty-six years when he became secretary of the Railway Association of Canada at Winnipeg, in August, 1939. He commenced service with the Canadian Pacific Railway in the motive power department at Moose Jaw, Sask., in 1903, and advanced steadily to become chief clerk in the office of the general superintendent at this point. In 1922 he was appointed chief clerk in the office of the vice-president and general manager at Winnipeg, and in 1928 was appointed assistant superintendent in the operating department at Wilkie, Sask. In July, 1937, he moved to Minnedosa, Man., in the same capacity. As general secretary of the Railway Association of Canada, Mr. Brass will be located at association headquarters in Montreal.

BOMBER CHRISTENED

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13 (CP).—Christened "Thunderbird" by thirteen-year-old Roderick Pringle on behalf of British Columbia school children who have been investing their savings in War Stamps and Certificates, a PBY patrol bomber was ready today to join Allied Air Forces in their fight against the Axis.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Pringle of White Rock, B.C., Roderick named the Vancouver-built bomber yesterday as authorities recognized the work being done by British Columbia school children in investing their dimes, nickels and pennies in war savings.

Authors Hear Talk on Book Production

Travel restrictions and curtailed public amusement may make Canadians into book-buyers, according to W. H. Clarke, of the Oxford University Press (in Canada), who addressed the local branch of the Canadian Authors on Friday night at the Y.W.C.A.

Nothing but the best writing will be accepted by editors handicapped by priorities in materials, asserted the speaker. "War has tended to make us curious about our fellowmen in Norway, Madagascar or Egypt to the exclusion of the people on our own streets. It would be a misfortune if Canadian writers allowed foreign authors to pilfer the themes available in Canada where life is lived as intensely as anywhere on the globe," said Mr. Clarke. Rev. J. P. Hicks thanked the speaker for an inspiring address.

Alex. Sutherland, president, who had just returned from the authors' convention in Montreal, presented Miss Anne Marriott with the Governor-General's Medal given for the best Canadian poetry of the year.

Mr. Hicks reviewed Major F. V. Longstaff's history, "Esquimalt Naval Base," commending it as a well-documented addition to the historical records of this coast.

Miss Anne Marriott gave a craft talk on writing for radio. Fred Wright sang, accompanied by Mrs. Wright.

Miss Muriel Rant received congratulations on the production of her radio play by the national network, and Miss M. Eugenie Perry on the acceptance of her narrative poem, "Hearing a Far Call," which will be published in chap-book form by the Ryerson Press.
